Aged Cow Tops At Delaware Holstein Show

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

HARRINGTON, DE — The tall, aged cow owned by Norman Voss Jr. of Clayton took home all the glories at the 10th annual Delaware State Holstein Show. Pretty View Dominion, the first-place aged cow and senior champion, also took tops honors in the udder class.

Judge Jane Pebble of Oxford, Pa., said every herd should have an animal like her. Norman also took home the junior champion title with a summer yearling heifer, The Steinhauers Jet Minnie.

The junior show was dominated by the Dixon family. They had first-place animals in all the classes and went home with the premier breeder and exhibitor banners. Kevin Warren of Kenton won the junior champion title with his intermediate heifer, Diexiedel Dazzler Future Haise.

The four-year-old owned by Samuel Dixon IV recived the senior champion trophy and was

And so, after a career as a salesman, Joe fulfilled his dream of becoming a farmer. Along with Marcella, he raises purebred Columbias, many of which are sold as freezer or market lambs.

It all began in 1984 when a

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures prices closed mixed this afternoon, gaining 2 cents on the spot option and suffering fractional losses on the deferreds. Pressure in the new crop months was attributed to the absence of new outside buying interest with some position evening featured in advance of tomorrow's supply and demand report. Strength in the spot option was in response to another day of light delivery notices and ongoing cash market strength amid slow country movement. Trading was relatively uneventful today with prices confined to narrow ranges. May corn traded in a 1-3/4 cent range while the December traded in a 1-1/4 cent range. May oats closed 2-1/2 cents lower while grain sorghum dropped 1/2 cent. Bids for generic cerficates were steady.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures closed lower today from 2 cents on the deferred May to 8 cents on the spot May. Softness in the spot option was in response to talk that values at the Gulf fell several cents this morning along with ideas that any export business recently conducted had been fully factored in the cash markets. New crop came under pressure from weather forecasts calling for beneficial rainfall over parts of western Iowa, Missiouri and Nebraska early next week. Many participants were sidelined in advance of tomorrow's U.S. and World Supply/Demand reports and the First World Outlook Board Estimates for 1989 soybean production. May settled today at $7.58-1/4 while November closed 3 cents lower at $7.17-1/2.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures steadied today and posted settlements from 1/2 to 1 cent higher after a fairly lackluster session. Prices remained stuck in a four cent channel today with many participants on the sidelines awaiting Thursday's production reports. Selling interest was limited by ideas that China and the USSR would soon tender for export bonus. Buying was stalled on forecasts for rainfall this week over much of the hard red belt.

EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW JERSEY LIVE POULTRY REPORT: FEDERAL-STATE Prices trended lower. Trade sentiment was weak. Offers from producers were adequate for buyer needs. Processors have booked some flocks for next week pick up at 14-15 cents. Most processors operated less than full because demand for canner pack product was lighter than expected. Buyers of finished product continue to resist current asking prices and bought on an as needed basis.

ATTENTION TOBACCO GROWERS

Golden Leaf Tobacco Company Would Like To Encourage You To Increase 609 Tobacco Production In 1989.

We have just returned from an overseas tobacco selling trip and the news is good!

Our orders have increased for 609 tobacco over the past several years, and we could have purchased much more of the 1988 crop had it been available. Surplus government stock has been depleted, and U.S. grown tobacco inventory is at its lowest level in years.

Our goal has been to establish a strong market for Pennsylvania 609 by personally visiting manufacturers overseas and here in the US. Our goal has been met!

The outlook is good for 1989 as more US grown tobacco is needed for cigarette production both in the US and overseas.

It is our desire to continue to work closely with each of you. We are daily continuing our efforts to build the 609 tobacco demand into a lasting market that will carry into the future. Our company prides itself on a relationship with the farmers based on honesty, integrity and loyalty. If we can be of service to you please feel free to call.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

MAY 15-21, 1989

Full Flower Moon.

May 15, Straw Hat Day, considered by well-dressed men to be the first permissable day to start wearing summer head gear . May 18, 1910, Halley's Comet passes over the sun, alarming thousands who believed it would coincide with the end of the world Average length of days for the week 14 hours 42 minutes May 21 birthdays include actor Raymond Burr and author, poet, Robert Creeley . The best way to know God is to love many things — Vincent van Gogh.

Ask the Old Farmer: Have you heard the saying "A bushel a day after the middle of May? What does it mean? W P, Conn

Sure! It's a corn belt saying and suggests that corn planted after May 15 usually yields a bushel a day less for each day late into the ground.

Home Hints: Add a tablespoon of sugar to the water in the vase to prolong the freshness of cut flowers

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Rain, then clearing; more rain and cold and that's the week A wet May is evident this week in New England! Bring out the oilskins

Greater New York-New Jersey: Variable is the word this week Some heavy rain; seasonably warm. Precipitation is 2 5" above average this month

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Showers turn to rain, heavy in the eastern parts; cool, then more rain, locally heavy, and warm temperatures.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Clear and seasonable weather starts the week; then heavy rains take over, turning to showers in the west; cool

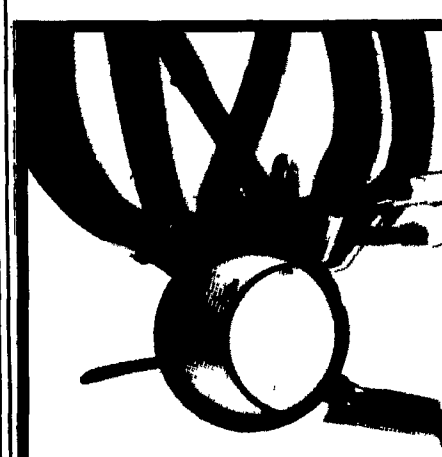
SILICONE TRANSPARENT MILK TUBING



Perfectly Hygenic: Milk Fat Slides By. Silicone's tightly packed pure resins are 100% bonded to one another. Milk fat and bacteria, the two agents responsible for the deterioration of rubber or plastic, cannot react with silicone. Nothing breaks silicone down. It is perfectly hygienic and has an infinite life span.
Complies with FDA

Flexible as Rubber. Never Brittle. A dense molecular structure allows silicone tubing to have a softer shore (flexibility), than rubber while retaining the strength of plastic. Silicone keeps its flexibility for years, where plastic and rubber becomes brittle over time.
Keeps HS "Grip" Never Slips. Plastic tubing, repeatedly put on and off a claw or milk line inlet, eventually loses its stretch and starts to fall off. Silicone tubing holds to a claw or milk nipple with the same resilient "grip" it starts out with.
Transparent for Life. Unlike plastic tubing which fades to an impenetrable yellow, silicone will not discolor from its original, opaque transparency.
Silicone Milk Tubing 5/8", 9/16" or 7/16"..... $3.30/ft.
New for separate quarter milking claws: 7/16" Silicone Milk Tubing.

OPINION

Shall The Tax Laws Be Changed?

The tax reform referendum that comes up for a vote in the Pennsylvania primary next Tuesday has generated heated discussion. Sometimes more heat than light has been generated.

And while most of the farm organizations have officially supported the reform, the discussions still leave questions in the minds of voters. This is partly true because proponents of both sides of the issue quote possible figures of how much more or less a family in a sample situation will pay. One side says a family in Lehigh County that makes $30,000 annually would pay about 12 percent less in local taxes under the reforms. And the other side says that same family would pay 17 percent more.

The Gov. Robert P. Casey administration, who developed the reforms and pushed them through the legislative process, says a positive response will shift the burden of taxes away from the property owner to a more equitable taxation on income of those able to pay. Opponents say the proposed changes in tax structure simply opens the way for local governments to increase taxes later.

But both sides seem to agree that no one can really know what will happen. There are just too many local variables. Certainly, it would seem that a farm owner who is "rich in land" but "poor in cash" would benefit. We have said for a long time that farmers pay more than their share of taxes for local services more needed by town people. But along with the local income tax, the reform also provides for a local sales tax. So, does this mean the farmer who rents or share crops his farm will pay more taxes than he did before? That will be in the hands of the local government.

But first, the voters will have their say. The question on the ballot will be as follows: "Shall Article VII, Sec. 2B, of the Pennsylvania Constitution be amended to allow for legislation which would require or permit local government units to reduce residential real estate tax rates to the extent of additional revenues obtained from personal income taxes, while keeping all other changes in real estate tax rates uniform."

Confused or not, the vote is in your hands.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Be Aware Of Corn Insects

With the increased trend toward no-till corn planting or minimum tillage, we can expect more problems with corn insects. Past experience shows this. We urge corn growers to inspect their field frequently to observe any feeding on small plants. You can have cutworms, stalk borers and armyworms at any time feeding on the corn plant. The Agronomy Guide lists several materials for the control of cutworms and armyworms, including Sevin, Furadan, Lorsban, Pounce or Dylox. The stalk borer is very difficult to control because they work inside the corn stalk.

Flea beetles are another insect that may feed on small corn leaves; they create small holes in the leaves but seldom do extensive damage. Sevin can be used to eliminate these small insects, if it is serious enough. Keep an eye on the corn field for the first several weeks and avoid serious insect injury. Always follow label directions when using any pesticide.

To Continue Forage Feeding

Dairymen and beef cattle producers should continue to feed some dry matter while the animals are on pasture. The feeding of hay or silage, when the cattle are turned out to pasture will result in more uniform production. Also, keeping some dry matter in the ration will help prevent serious scouring and bloating.

Some producers provide this forage by way of a portable hay bunk in the pasture area. The animals should consume some of the dry forage along with lush spring pasture. The hay should be fed early in the day, before the herd goes to the new pasture. Later in the season the stored hay or silage will continue to be useful when growth slows down due to dry weather and high temperatures.

To Read The Label

I am sure you have heard this suggestion before, however, it is still very important to all farmers and gardeners.

Every pesticide carries a label with directions; this should be read and followed during the application of the material. Don't make the mistake of applying the material in error. The labels are required by law and should be respected by the user.

Serious losses may occur if the directions are not followed. Materials should always be kept in their original container and stored in a separate place under padlock.

To Do Spring Pruning

Many plants and bushes require some corrective pruning to improve their appearance, to hold them to desirable size, and to remove damaged and weakened sections.

There is a time to prune and a time not to prune, and this varies from plant to plant. A good time for pruning spring flowering plants is after they've bloomed and before they start forming next year's flowering buds. Pruning soon after flowering also gives more time for new growth to cover up that newly-pruned look.

FARM FORUM

OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

While I endorse staff writer Pat Purcell's call for farmers to "get all the facts" in her May 6 article "Tax Reform Referendum—Get All the Facts," several misleading statements and omissions in her article seem to defeat her intended objectives. In order for farmers to truly get all of the facts about the tax reform proposal, Act 145, a number of corrections and clarifications to her article are necessary.

First, it must be pointed out that the entire portion of a farm used by the owner-farmer or a family member as a primary residence should be entitled to the 25% residential real property tax reduction, not just the farm house and the land. Act 145 would define a "farm residence" eligible for residential realty tax treatment as the real property. i.e land and buildings, of a farm used for residential purposes and includes land used in the commercial production of crops, livestock and livestock products. Only that portion of the farm that is utilized for processing or retail merchandising of products produced on the farm, a processing plant or a retail farm market, is not subject to residential realty tax treatment. All cropland on the farm will receive the tax break, regardless of whether the crops are marketed through a retail farm market.

Secondly, while any statute passed by the General Assembly can be subject to state constitutional challenge, the real focus should be the likelihood of such challenge's success. You must understand that our courts impose

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHEN YOU GET WHERE YOU'RE GOING

May 14, 1989

Background Scripture: Ephesians 4:1-16.

Devotional Reading: John 17:20-26.

In workshops, seminars, classes, sermons, and counseling sessions, my wife, Valere, and I over the years have never tired of asking: "When you get where you're going, where will you be?" It is a leading question that often is very provocative for people willing to do a little soul-searching.

Some people answer: "I'm not going anywhere any more." They assume they are going nowhere in life, that they're standing still. But the fact is, we're always moving in some direction. From the moment of conception we are moving on a course that carries us through life to death, and we trust, to something beyond. There may be times when we might want to stop the world and get off, but life moves on, even when we think we are standing still.

NO LONGER CHILDREN

So, the question is not are we going somewhere, but rather: when you get where you're going, where will you be? You are going somewhere in life, to be sure, but is it where you intend to go? Is the direction in which you are moving the direction that will take you where you want to go?

Actually, none of us are created to stand still in life. We are created to grow and develop, not just in the beginning of life, but through to the very end. Paul says, "we are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ" (4:15). Too many Christian adults assume that they've done all the growing that's expected of them. "How much more growing am I supposed to do?" some of them have questioned me. I can't improve upon Paul's answer to the church at Ephesus: "until we all attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ, so that we may no longer be children..." (4:13,14).

MANY GIFTS, ONE SOURCE

What is true of us as individual Christians is also true of us as congregations: we are not finished learning and growing until we are fulfilling his plan and purpose as a church: "to equip the saints for the work of ministry for building up the body of Christ, until we all attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God" (4:12,13). I've pastored a number of fine congregations, but I've never found a church that no longer needed to grow and develop in the Lord, that discovered and used all of its God-given spiritual gifts or that had learned to manifest at all times the ideal of "one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all" (4:5). Until we reach that destination, we need to make sure we know where we're going.

Now There's A Farmer In Your Area Who Can Make Any Business Loan The Bank Can.

Since 1917, farmers have taken kindly to Farm Credit because we're owned and controlled by people who really understand your business.

Farmers. Just like yourself. Thing was, we didn't exactly lay out a Sunday dinner spread of loans. Our menu was limited, and we knew it.

So recently we overhauled our lending system. We now offer competitive rates and options for loans we never could offer before.
Adjustable rate mortgages.
Revolving lines of credit.
Variable and fixed rate loans.
Terms of 30 days to 30 years. There's even a variety of services including insurance plans.

Some things do remain the same, however. The Farm Credit loan officer you talk to still makes most of the decisions.

And chances are he can do it faster than most bankers can say "bureaucracy."

So think about this for a moment. Who would you rather deal with for your next loan? A banker who merely wants your business. Or a farmer who knows it.

Clayton Yeutter, Sec. of Agriculture, said the USDA would be in a better position to make a recommendation on extending the 1988 Drought Assistance Law after release of its official projections tomorrow. Governor Kay Orr of Nebraska appealed to Secretary Yeutter to declare the entire state eligible for Federal Disaster assistance. July what closed out today's session 3/4 cent higher at $4.14-3/4 while the September and December options each gained 1 cent.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle and fee ders ended today's session mixed with living cattle settling from 35 lower on the spot option to 7 higher on the December while feeders settled 20 higher on the spot option to 43 lower on the September. Sales were linked to long liquidation and continued anticipation of an increase in numbers from late May into the summer. Losses were limited by ongoing firm cash market fundamentals after reports of active fed sales at steady prices and stronger boxed beef movement at higher prices. Traders today took on the attitude that all good things must come to an end and played the safe side of the market. The only plus part of feeders today was the spot option which gained 20 on another uptick in the CME Index while the other months slid lower.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: CASH - steady FUTURES - steady to weak.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed mixed today, gaining from 10 to 22 points and losing from 10 to 20 points. Selling was tied to the steep premium futures hold to cash prices and expectations for cash market weakness with buying tied to spillover from the belly pit. Bellies closed from 153 to limit higher this afternoon with buying attributed to ideas that bellies had reached their bottom and were due for a technical correction. Further strength was tied to follow thru from yesterday's limit advances. Slaughter today was estimated at 320,000 which compares with last Wednesday's 325,000 and 308,000 last year.

BCS tillers make a lot of horse sense. Or mule sense.
They're available in nine basic sizes that range from 5 to 16 horsepower. Which means there's one for any size chore or person.,
What's more, there's one for any job. You can convert a BCS tiller in minutes to a lawnmower, sickle bar cutter, garden sprayer, or snow-thrower.
Plus they eat no hay, drink no water, aren't a bit stubborn and require a very small stable.
So why don't you put one in your stable? Visit your BCS dealer for a demonstration.

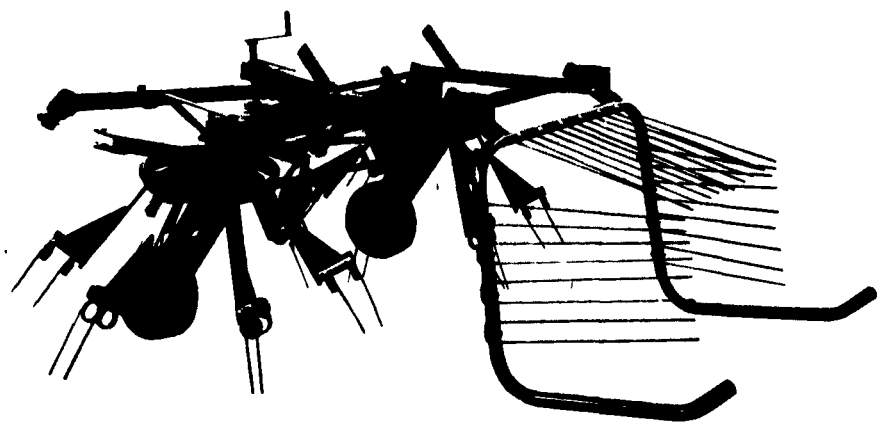
Hay Tedders



When it comes to drying hay this versatile machine does it all. With the basket in the raised position it functions as a standard tedder. The hay is lifted, spread and fluffed up for maximum air and light penetration, reducing drying time by up to 50%. With the basket in the lowered position the operator can rake loose hay into windrows and fluff up damp windrows to speed drydown and eliminate raking.

Reeds-Creek Bell Gidget

Farm Essentials.

Cows. Crops. And a Scavenger® spreader. The three essentials for higher productivity and a more successful farm operation.

Manure is money.
According to ag experts at the University of Missouri, the average dairy cow produces 70 pounds of manure every day—up to 13 tons a year. Worth about $5.00/ton, that equates to $65.00 per cow a year. If you own a 60-head herd that's almost $4,000 of free fertilizer. And in today's farm environment that adds up to big savings.

Scavenger—good to your crops, good to you.
To get the most from your manure you need a spreader to efficiently manage manure. A spreader that works with you. A spreader designed and built for today's farming. You need a Scavenger.

Scavenger loads quickly and spreads fast. And thanks to advanced engineering, Scavenger spreads all kinds of manure—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack (even frozen)—all year 'round. But more importantly, Scavenger's patented moveable square-auger and Variflo discharge combine to let you choose your optimum rate of application—from top dressing to heavy springtime spreading. You get the kind of spreads your crops need—nice and even, without damaging "hotspots". With Scavenger, your crops receive the essential nutrients to produce better yields.

See Scavenger for yourself.
Don't be misled by claims of other manufacturer's spreaders that say they do it all. See Scavenger for yourself and compare actual capabilities. We think you'll find your choice obvious—you'll choose Scavenger®.

For a firsthand look at Scavenger, see your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. Or for more information write: Hedlund/Martin, Inc., A Gehl Company, 741 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067. Telephone: 717-933-4151

Cornell and Vermont Establish Dairy Foods Research Center

ITHACA, N.Y. — Cornell University and the University of Vermont have jointly established the Northeast Dairy Foods Research Center to expand research on dairy products and food technology ranging from improved packaging systems to biotechnology. The center also plans to train more dairy scientists for the nation's dairy foods industry.

Ceremonies marketing the inauguration of the center were held at Cornell on March 24 and at Vermont on March 25. David M. Barbano, an associate professor of food science in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, was appointed director of the center.

The National Dairy Promotion and Research Board, the research center's sponsor, and the dairy industry in the Northeast will provide $6 million over the next five years to finance the center's research and other activities, according to Barbano. The board was established by Congress in 1983 to develop a coordinated program of promotion and research to strengthen the nation's dairy industry.

Barbano will work closely with Catherine Donnelly of the University of Vermont, who has been named associate director of the center. Donnelly is associate dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Vermont and associate director of the College of Agriculture at the University of Vermont and associate director of the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station.

Barbano, a specialist in milk chemistry and processing, said that the center provides scientific, technical and marketing support to help meet the changing needs of the dairy product manufacturing industry in the Northeast.

Changes in consumer attitudes toward foods and nutrition and shifts in demographic trends in the nation, among other factors, are expected to provide new marketing and growth opportunities for the dairy industry, he noted.

Areas of research to be conducted under the sponsorship of the center include:

- New product development.
- Improvements in the quality and safety of dairy foods in terms of flavor, texture, nutritional value and overall appeal to consumers.
- Improved packaging technology for greater convenience, easier handling and better storage.
- New food processing and engineering techniques.
- Improvements of dairy product quality and extension of shelf life.
- Development of standardized methods for analysis and testing of dairy foods and ingredients.
- Applications of biotechnology to dairy science.

The joint Cornell-University of Vermont center is one of six such regional research centers established around the country sponsored by the national dairy board. Other universities designated by the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board to establish and run the centers are the University of Wisconsin at Madison; the University of Minnesota and South Dakota State University; the Utah State University, Oregon State University and Brigham Young University; the University of California at Davis and California Polytechnic and State University; and North Carolina State University and Mississippi State University.

These research centers are expected to bring about further advances in all aspects of dairy science, including dairy product development and processing technology, Barbano said.

A member of the Cornell faculty since 1980, Barbano has focused his research on improving cheese manufacturing technology; membrane filtration of milk and whey; the safety, quality and composition of milk produced by cows treated with bovine somatotropin (bovine growth hormone); and improvement of chemical testing procedures for milk and dairy products.

Barbano received B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Cornell. From 1977 to 1980, he served as a postdoctoral research associate in Cornell's Department of Food Science.

All American Junior Dairyman Contestants identify milk products such as buttermilk, cheese, and yogurt.

All American Junior Dairyman Contestants identify farm grown grain, byproduct feeds, and feed ingredient samples commonly used in eastern United States.

1989 Junior Dairyman Contest Planned

BY DR. CARL BROWN,
Advisory Committee Chairman

HARRISBURG (DAUPHIN CO.) — Do you know an asset from a liability, can you identify a veal cutlet, could you select which heifer out of a group of four should be culled based on her pedigree and functional type, could you identify garlic flavor in milk? If your answer is yes to each of these; or if you would like to be able to answer these questions correctly and many more, then you should start practicing now for the Junior Dairyman Contest. What is the Junior Dairyman Contest? It is a contest that will take place in conjunction with the 1989 All-American Dairy Show on Tuesday, September 26th in Harrisburg, Pa. It is open to all 4-H and FFA members/teams from Pennsylvania and surrounding states, and really tests your knowledge of skills needed to be a successful dairy manager.

This is the third year that this contest has been held, and during the past two years teams from many 4-H and FFA groups from several states have participated. Each year the classes change so the contest is never the same. This years classes will include:

1) A keep/cull cattle selection class.

2) A descriptive evaluation class where cattle are coded on type traits.

3) A meats ID class where 10 dairy beef and veal cuts must be identified.

4) A feed ID class where 20 feed ingredients must be matched to their name.

5) A forage ID class where common dairy forages are identified/evaluated.

6) A milking equipment class where parts of a milking stystem are identified.

7) A dairy marketing quiz where questions on milk marketing are discussed.

8) A milk flavors evaluation where various off-flavors in milk are spotted.

9) A dairy management quiz on current practices in managing dairy cows.

10) A farm business analysis quiz where items like assets and interest rates are discussed and analyzed.

If this sounds too much like school, forget it because it isn't. There are lots of "Hands On" activities, and everyone has a chance to be a winner. The top ten individuals in the first ten classes still need to go through an interview where three judges evaluate contestants on what they really know by asking each to discuss three topics the contestant selects from a prepared list which involves current problems and opportunities in the dairy industry. These interviews last about five minutes and really test each contestant's knowledge of the dairy business.

If you belong to a 4-H club or FFA chapter that is looking for an activity to sharpen dairy skills, this contest will be hard to beat. In addition there are lots of prizes!

Prices Strong For Jerseys At Auction

REYNOLDSBURG, OH — Only 10 days and a continent separated the overwhelming success of two Jersey auction sales held in April: the Pride of the West Invitational Sale and the 10th Waverly Invitational.

The Pride of the West sale made its debut on April 14 at the Hi-Lite Sales Pavilion in Burlington, Wash. The offering of 37 head was quickly snapped up for an average of $2,739 and headed to herds from California, Oregon and Washington to Vermont, New York and Virginia. Six animals sold for more than $4,000.

Tops at the Pride of the West was Pumpkin Hill Silver B Ali, a fancy daughter of Valleystream Silver Beacon with 19,145-1,117 m.e. as a senior yearling and selling with an AI contract. She was purchased by Gary McDonald, Stephens City, Va., from Mark Ahlem, Hilmar, Calif.

The Pride of the West Sale was sponsored by Skagit Jerseys, owned by Lester Faler and Karl Kragnes, and Paul and Debra Page, all of Washington. Ray Nelson, Burlington, Wash., was the auctioneer.

The enthusiasm carried over to the Waverly Invitational held 10 days later in Clearbrook, Va. At this 10th anniversary celebration of the event sponsored by the Robert Stiles Family, 67 lots averaged $3,106.06. Of these, seven sold for more than $6,000.

A daughter of the Jersey Milk and Fat Champion producer topped the Waverly sale. Top Brass Denise-ET, consigned by Heifer Project International, Perryville, Ark., was purchased for export to Brazil by Antonio Carlos Machado Jr. Scored Excellent, "Denise" was sired by A-Nine Top Brass.

The Pride of the West and Waverly sales lead the Jersey auction average for 1989. Prices for high-quality Registered Jerseys have generally been strong in numerous sales held this spring, with state sales averaging between $1,100 and $1,300.

For more information on upcoming Jersey sales, contact The American Jersey Cattle Club, 6486 E. Main St., Reynoldsburg, OH 43068-2362.

UNDERSTANDING LOCAL TAX REFORM?

It has been said that the only things in life that are certain are death and taxes. The only good point of that is death doesn't get any worse after each legislative session.

Tuesday May 16, 1989 is a most important polling date. Not only will Pennsylvania voters express their opinion on gambling with a ballot question on small games of chance, but they also will have an opportunity to let legislators know how they want to be taxed in the future.

One thing is certain: government can not operate without funding. Even if service is to remain constant, the cost of providing that service will increase. The voters now have a chance to direct how that increase will occur.

In an attempt to try to understand Act 145, I reviewed a summary of the act which contained 167 pages. The summary also warns that definitions change from chapter to chapter. Therefore with each chapter you need to review what definitions apply to that chapter.

EXEMPTIONS AND PREEMPTIONS

The act provides that no act of the General Assembly will preempt the local authority's right to collect taxes assessed under this act except for financial institutions and malt beverage distributors.

One of the biggest selling points of this act has been the mandatory 25 percent reduction of residential real property taxes. The reduction is accomplished by reducing the millage. There are several exceptions to this mandatory reduction. A financially distressed municipality can increase taxation on income, real property or both. For any municipality, if the imposed income tax does not replace the loss of nuisance taxes, the mandatory 25 percent reduction is not possible.

Also, for any taxing authority, the local tax study commission can recommend a millage rate reduction of less than 25%. Home Rule Municipalities may adopt whatever level of tax they see fit.

REASSESSMENTS

Chapter 21 of Act 145 recognizes that most Pennsylvania counties have not kept the assessment of real property abreast of the market value of that property. Because of this failure, inequities exist in the distribution of the tax burden. In order to rectify this problem the General Assembly will provide counties with funding to assist in improving and maintaining their assessment procedures.

RESIDENTIAL REAL PROPERTY DEFINED

Real Property which meets one or more of the following: (1) Is used and occupied as the primary residence of the owner.
(2) Is the portion of a multiple-use property which is used and occupied as the primary residence of the owner.
(3) Is a farm residence which is used and occupied as the primary residence of the owner or immediate family member.
(4) Is the primary residence for an immediate family member.
(5) Is leased by the owner to tenants for residential use as a primary residence.

From this definition I will assume that the 25 percent mandatory reduction for residential real property will be limited to primary personal residences only. Apparently the reassessment provided for will assess the primary residence separate from other property. How about the farm office? The attached garage / workshop? I do hope the reassessment removes the inequities.

NUISANCE TAXES ELIMINATED

The following taxes will be prohibited:
(1) A tax based on profession or occupations (occupation tax)
(2) A tax on employed persons (occupational privilege tax)
(3) A per capita tax
(4) A tax on personal property
(5) The earned income tax

Maryland Guernsey Breeders Celebrate Achievements

TANEYTOWN, Md. — Maryland Guernsey enthusiasts from the tate and one Guernsey Breeder from northern Virginia gathered at the New Midway firehouse recently for their annual Maryland Cooperative Guernsey Breeders Association meeting.

After donuts and beverages (including Milk) the meeting was called to order by President, Howard Fleming. Minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. According to Edgar Hawker, outgoing treasurer, the association had a good financial year in 1988.

President Fleming reported the Guernsey calf raffle in 1988 for the scholarship fund netted $795 and the association matched that amount for a total of $1,590. The intent is to give one scholarship this year. Bill Messix agreed to donate a Guernsey calf for the 1989 scholarship fund raffle. Ticket sales are coordinated by Charles McLaughlin of Taneytown. The drawing again will be at the Maryland State Fair after the Guernsey judging. Carroll County Ag. Days March 10 & 11 in Eldersburg had a table which was arranged with Guernsey literature and 20 lbs. of cheese cubes were given to many Guernsey friends.

During the year, the Directors had five meetings, attended three PDCA meetings, supported the Junior Dairyman Contest and various other 4-H/FFA functions in the state of Maryland. Again this year, we helped our junior members with the expenses of showing at the National Junior Guernsey Show in Harrisburg, PA. We are continuing to work with the Maryland Department of Agriculture Animal Health Section to expand existing programs and to establish new state supported animal health programs. We have worked hard establishing a scholarship program for our Maryland Guernsey youth.

The Maryland Guernsey youth were well represented in the National Junior Guernsey Show at Harrisburg, PA. The juniors walked away with the grand champion of the Junior Show, reserve grand of the National Show and numerous other top awards.

They had five Junior All-American nominations. For a state as small as ours, this is excellent representation! The youth had a good showing at the state and local shows as well. It was encouraging seeing the junior fitting and showing classes, knowing they are the future of the breed. Thanks to the 4-H leasing program, I know our breed will benefit. Burnt Mills Farm has committed one heifer to this project and we encourage all of you to do the same. Think of the results we could see in the future of the Golden Guernsey.

Maryland is being represented at the Kentucky National Show and Sale by several outstanding animals. These animals were picked by the Guernsey Marketing Service. The Marketing Service is continuing to do a very outstanding job to market cattle for our organization.

This year we decided that it was time some of our older members needed to be recognized for all their hard work. The Association is presenting John Merryman and William Messix II for the Distinguished Serivce and Master Breeder Awards, respectively. We had also nominated John Schnebly for the Outstanding Young Farmer's Award.

Elizabeth Zimmerman, Frederick County, is the Maryland Guernsey Queen for 1989 and assisting her is Kathy Weant of Taneytown, Carroll County. The 1988 Record book awards - Juniors: 1st, Heather Hull; 2nd, Brian Schnebly; 3rd. Ginger Hull. Senior: 1st, Elizabeth Zimmerman; 2nd. Kimberly Fleming; 3rd, Adam Messix. Junior Production: Randy Maple Telestar Jolly 3-2 17830m 828f 624p, owner Heather Frey.

Copies of the 1988 Maryland Production Leaders and listing of the Top Ten Herds in Maryland are attached.

At noon, the ladies of the New Midway Fire Department, served an all you can eat shrimp and beef dinner.

Our main speaker, for the annual meeting was Dave Thorbahn, Sire Analyst for American Breeders Service. His topic was "Understanding The Animal Model." Dave said, the animal model is a new statistical method of evaluating the genetic merit of bulls and cows. New, larger computers allow for simultaneous genetic evaluations with all relationships included, which was computationally impossible in previous evaluations.

All genetic evaluations for both bulls and cows will be labeled Predicted Transmitting Ability (PTA) rather than PD and CI. All relatives contribute to the animal's evaluation although only immediate relatives appear to be included. Information from distant relatives is included through the animal's parents and offspring. Each animal's evaluation influences the evaluations of all ancestors and descendants.

Although many changes have been made with the Animal Model, several concepts are the same as the Modified Contemporary Comparison (MCC). Both systems produce estimates of the genetic merit an animal will transmit to its progeny. They also rely on comparisons with contemporaries and assume these contemporaries are treated equally.

The Animal Model and its new terminology will go into effect with USDA's July 1989 genetic evaluations. Recent advances in computer technology and availability of supercomputers made this preferred system of evaluation practical. The result will be the most complete and accurate evaluation system for production ever used.

How does the Animal Model Benefit Me? Evaluations from the Animal Model will be more accurate because: Genetic merit of all relatives (cow families) is considered; Adjustment is made for genetic merit of an animal's mates; Cows are compared more precisely with herdmates under similar management conditions; and also, the day is coming fast when all milk will be priced on protein, fat and solids not fat.

Singing Brook Farms' Bull Goes To ABS

DeFOREST, WI — American Breeders Service has selected a young Holstein bull, Singing-Brook Nittany-ET to enter their Progeny Testing Program. He was bred by Singing Brook Farms, of Imler, Pennsylvania. He is sired by Glenafton Enhancer. His dam, Jackbuilt Chairman Mandy (EX-92) is one of the very finest daughters of Chairman. Mandy is a maternal sister to the exciting ABS sire, Jackbuilt Activation. Second dam in this superb pedigree is Fisher-Place M Amanda-ET, the 94-point full sister to the ABS proven sire Fisher-Place Baltimore, and the fourth dam is the renown 96-point Wapa Bootmaker Mandy.

Singing-Brook Nittany-ET joins over 200 other young Holstein bulls being tested this year through the ABS testing program. After a four-year wait, his progeny will be evaluated and a decision made as to whether or not he qualifies to join the elite line-up of ABS proven sires.

ABS has the nation's largest A.I. progeny test program and supplies semen to each of the 50 states and to over 65 foreign countries.

Chester-Delaware Farmers Announce Food Price Survey

OXFORD (Chester Co.) — Directors of the Chester/Delaware Farmer's Association approved the preparation of a report on a food price survey being prepared by Women's Committee at their monthly meeting in West Chester.

Dorothy Bartels, West Grove, Chairman of the Women's Committee, said that the study is tracking the changes and increases in food prices both locally and nationwide. She pointed out that a few years ago, a dollar for the price of a bread was unthinkable. It was pointed out that the farmer receives less than 5 cents of the retail price of a loaf of bread.

Plans are being made for the formation of a mushroom commodity committee to advise and prepare policy for the Farmer's Association and the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association. This will provide further exposure for mushroom grower's concerns in the public forum.

Elmer Mast, Parkesburg, chairman of the Policy Development Committee urged Directors to attend the organization meeting on August 9 at 8:30 a.m. Mast said that all members should be involved in preparing policy statements that will pertain to local affairs as well as state and national issues.

Bartels told Directors that Chester/Delaware Farmer's Association will be hosting Ladies Day Out, for nine area counties, on June 1 at the Red Rose Inn. The speaker will be Dick Hutton from Star Roses speaking of "Roses For You." Each person attenting will receive a rose. "Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling 869-2126 on or before May 24," Bartels said. She urged that women members of the Farmer's Association register and attend to act as hostesses for the event.

Ed Koncle, Regional Organization Director, P.F.A., announced a meeting of Bucks, Montgomery, and Chester/Delaware Directors on August 8 at the Gilbertsville Fire Hall. A Legislative update evening meeting will be held August 7, at Yoder's in New Holland.

"Present county membership stands at 640 with 40 new members," Richard Breckbill, President, Oxford, reported. An additional 40 members are needed to reach this year's goal. Linda Hicks will be membership processor for 1990 applications. Dues will remain at $75 for next year's membership.

Breckbill stressed that non-farmers are eligible for associate membership. Associate membership entitles them to insurance benefits, purchasing Safemark products through local dealers and support of farmer's policy. Information about associate membership may be obtained by calling Breckbill at 932-3307, Mast at 593-5855, Hicks at 436-8444 or any other Director.

Charles Moore and Barclay Hoopes were named Co-Chairmen for the annual meeting to be held Thursday, September 28.

Roy Christman, Hamburg, Regional Director of P.F.A. led a discussion on the ramifications of the Tax Reform Bill proposed by the State.

Act 145: Tax Reform Referendum

Farmers, Retirees and League Of Women Voters Call For 'Yes' Vote

BY PAT PURCELL

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Both opposition and support were voiced for the tax reform referendum at Thursday night's meeting held by the Lancaster Inter-Municipal Committee. Public officials and representatives from various organizations were invited to attend and share their opinion on one of the most controversial subjects in Pennsylvnaia tax history.

Approximately 80 people attended the informational forum held at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. The panel of invited guests included: Gordon Hoover, president of the Lancaster County Farmers Association (LFA); Edgar Long, legislative chairman of the Centerville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP); Thomas Baldridge, vice-president of Government and Public Affairs of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry (LCCI); and Cheryl Desmond, president of the League of Women Voters of Lancaster County.

Representing the 1100 farm family members of the LFA, Hoover announced his organization supports a 'yes' vote on Tuesday because Act 145 offers farmers some relief from the present tax system based on real estate ownership which overburdens farmers.

"As a farmer's land assets increase his income from that land does not increase. Taxation on the basis of real estate owned means that farmers are taxed at a much higher rate than others," said Hoover.

Hoover explained that as development increases, the need for additional municipal services also increases and costs to the taxpayers increase also. A tax based on real estate ownership alone, puts the biggest part of the tax burden on those who are not receving those services, the farmer. LFA supports Act 145 because it would correct that imbalance by 'distributing the tax burden more evenly'.

Hoover admitted that there were inequities in the tax reform act, but emphasized the advantages to farmers far outweighed the act's shortcomings. Also, Hoover reminded the audience that at the end of the four-year buffer period the act would be reviewed and inequities could then be addressed.

LFA would like to see changes in the taxation of unearned income. "Farmers work all their lives to pay off their main asset, their land, and when they retire it is their only source of retirement income. They sell the farm and invest the money. Those people who have worked in the business world and then receive a pension are not taxed and we would like to see that income to farmers for their retirement not be taxed," said Hoover.

Hoover noted that along with the tax reform proposal more monies would be allocated to the counties to encourage reassment which Hoover feels would contribute to the redistribution of the tax burden and prove to be an additional benefit to farmers.

"We have taken the position that if we don't vote yes on the tax reform referendum it will be quite a few years before we have the opportunity to see the local tax system changed again," said Hoover.

Edgar Long of AARC encouraged retirees to vote "yes" on Tuesday to rid the system of regressive nuisance taxes, to spread the tax burden across a greater number of people instead of just property owners and to realize a tax savings for 45 percent of Pennsylvania's senior citizen population.

Long said he would like to see property tax eliminated altogether, but supports the tax reform proposal because he believes property owners will see at least a 50 percent drop in real estate taxes in many municipalities across the state.

"I can visualize a nice savings to senior citizens. Now the average senior citizen is paying approximately 3 percent of their income in taxes while the average wage earner pays just 2 percent. We are penalized for owning property and I think it's time that is stopped," said Long.

Baldridge of LCCI agreed with his co-panelists that it was indeed time for tax reform, but Act 145 was not the answer. LCCI supports a 'no' vote on Tuesday because the proposed reform if passed supports a dangerous precedent by supporting different tax rates.

Also, the reform would put

PAFC Announces Leadership Conference

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 1989 Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC) Young Cooperative Leaders Conference is set July 10-12 at Toftrees Resort in State College.

The 16th annual leadership program focuses on cooperative basics and issues. The target audience is the cooperative member-owner under age 35.

The educational aspects of the program are designed to "increase cooperative understanding by exposing your cooperative leaders to their peers as well as representatives of their cooperatives such as directors, management and staff," commented PAFC President Robert M. Dever.

Dever noted that the theme for this year's conference is "Member Input Equals Cooperative Success: Preparing for the '90s." The program is planned primarily by former participants.

The annual conference draws about 40 couples from across the Commonwealth and border states. The 1988 conference was held in conjunction with the National Institute on Cooperative Education in Rochester, NY.

This year's planning committee is chaired by Dan and Laureen Naylor, Factoryville. Other members include Charles and Becky Castle, Canton; Stan and Janice Burkholder, Chambersburg; Gordon and Carole Hoover, Gap; and Jim and Linda Compton, Clarksburg.

Registration for the three-day event is $350.00 per couple, $250.00 per single. The fee includes all meals, hotel accommodations and conference materials. For more information, contact PAFC at 717-232-7232 or Jim Barnett at 215-322-0200.

Retirees Realize Dream

search for a farm led the Vogels to their present location. They'd been looking all over for a property when they went to Hawk Mountain, a spot they had enjoyed during frequent visits.

Their farm, Stony Run Farm, comprises 80 acres of pasture and crop land, an old farm house, and a stone barn nestled among the hills near Hawk Mountain. The rolling land seemed perfectly suited for sheep.

Sheep were something the Vogels knew a bit about as they kept a small flock at their 10-acre Chester Springs home.

Before deciding on a breed to raise, the Vogels did some research. "We were basically looking for ewes that would be good mothers and good milkers, and would lamb easily," said Joe.

They selected Columbias partly because the breed is original to North America and because Columbias are fairly large, yet gentle and easy to manage.

From the original dozen ewes, the flock has expanded to 60 breeding ewes, three rams, and assorted lambs. The Vogels' goal is to have a flock of 100 breeding ewes. Toward that end they are keeping a certain number of ewe lambs.

"The ones we keep must be a twin or triplet," commented Joe. "We think that a twin or triplet would be genetically more apt to carry the twin gene."

Breeding is a fascinating subject to both Vogels, particularly Joe, "I find it real interesting to breed and see what happens and why."

The Vogels have split their flock into three separate flocks. They keep careful breeding records and avoid inbreeding. "I think it causes genetic problems," Joe stated. "It causes physical problems too such as prolapsing (expelling the uterus). Before we had our first ram, we rented a ram whose daughters were prone to prolapsing. We think his breeding was too closely related to our sheep's."

"But we don't know for sure it was inbreeding that did it," interjected Marcella. "It could have been hereditary."

Spring is a busy time for the Vogels. On a recent sunny day, they vaccinated their flock and checked each animal's overall health. Joe grabs a lamb in preparation to administering a shot.

Whatever the real cause for the prolapsing, the Vogels are taking no chances with their flock. They sold off all the sheep that had prolapsing problems and now stay away from inbreeding.

The Vogels have been building a freezer lamb trade. "It's a type of sales we like best," explained Joe. Growth has been slow but steady as advertising has mostly been word of mouth Currently about two-thirds of the Vogels' market lambs go direct to the customer. The other third is sold through auctions.

The lambs are custom butchered according to the customer's preference, and the meat is wrapped, labeled, frozen, and delivered directly to the customer. Many of the Vogels' clients are professional people living in an area that ranges from North Jersey to the Reading area.

The Columbias are finished to 125 to 130 pounds with a carcass that yields about 45 to 55 pounds of meat. The Vogels generally sell their lamb meat for $2.65 to $2.75 per pound. The price is affected by several factors including type of cuts and delivery charges.

Although the Vogels still are building their herd, they have sold some animals as breeding stock. They usually have about six to eight ewes and at least four ram lambs and a yearling ram to show prospective buyers.

For three of the five years they've been raising Columbias, the Vogels have participated in the state's ram lamb performance test. "We send two lambs, and they've always done well," said Joe.

Columbias don't normally breed for fall lambing, but Joe and Marcella are attempting to change this. "We placed 12 yearling ewes with rams now for fall lambing," Joe explained. "We would be glad to get two lamb crops."

"It would really spread out the cash flow," Marcella added.

The Vogels raise 24 acres of alfalfa in addition to barley and oats. They also harvest meadow grass, which is sold to horse owners. Approximately 32 acres of land is devoted to pasture. The paddocks are changed about every week or two depending on the weather. High-tensile fencing is used as a perimeter fence while three-strand polywire electic fencing is used to separate paddocks.

Joe and Marcella keep detailed records on their sheep. Here they discuss a ewe and her breeding.

Joe and Marcella share the work with Joe doing more of the heavy tasks. "I don't wrestle sheep, Joe does that," Marcella said with a grin. "I also do the bookkeeping and record keeping and we garden together."

When they're not farming or gardening, the Vogels are active with farming associations. They are members of the Pennsylvania Wool Growers Association, the Berks County Sheep & Wool Association and the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association. Promoting the sheep industry is important to the pair.

"Eighty-two percent of the lambs consumed in the United States are eaten in the Northeast," Joe stressed. "We have a tremendous market opportunity here."

Century Farm Certificates Awarded

HARRISBURG — Twenty-two Century Farms were recognized by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture during the first quarter of 1989.

The Century Farms Program recognizes farms that have remained in the same family for at least 100 consecutive years.

"Our farm families are the keystone of our state's economy," said Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff. "These families have worked very hard to make agriculture the number one industry in Pennsylvania. The Century Farms Program allows us to recognize their dedication and honor them for this achievement."

Since the program was begun in 1976, 1,338 farms have been designated as Century Farms. Wolff urged other farm families who might qualify for the designation to call 1-800-AG-PENNA for an application and additional information.

Pen-Col Farms' Bull Signed By ABS

DeFOREST, WI — American Breeders Service has selected a young Holstein bull, Pen-Col R Dauphin-ET to enter their Progeny Testing Program. He was bred by Pen-Col Farms, Millville, Pennsylvania. He is sired by Arlinda Rotate. His dam is an Ijon daughter, Pen-Col Ijon Dreamer-ET. She was scored Very Good as a 2-year-old and in 305 days on 2x milking produced 967 lbs. fat after calving at 27 months of age. The second dam is Pen-Col Bell Dream (VG), one of the higher indexing Bell daughters.

Pen-Col R Dauphin-ET joins over 200 other young Holstein bulls being tested this year through the ABS testing program. After a four-year wait, his progeny will be evaluated and a decision made as to whether or not he qualifies to join the elite line-up of ABS proven sires.

ABS has the nation's largest A.I. progeny test program and supplies semen to each of the 50 states and to over 65 foreign countries.

Poor Treatment Procedures Can Lead To More Mastitis

Although uncommon, mastitis can be caused by Nocardia, most frequently, N. asteroides. The reservoir and vectors of Nocardia mastitis have not been well established. Nocardia are found naturally in the environment, and presumably the soil is the source of teat skin contamination by Nocardia. Often contaminated mastitis treatment preparations and infusion needles are suspected as the vector of Nocardia mastitis transmission. However, cases of mastitis infections by Nocardia have been reported in heifers which never received intramammary treatment.

Like many mastitis pathogens, Nocardia can cause subclinical, clinical, or acute mastitis. Often it is associated with chronic mastitis as evidenced by fibrosed udders. As with any mastitis infection, milk production and quality is reduced by Nocardia infections. Nocardia are resistant to a number of antibiotics used to treat mastitis. Thus, if an antibiotic preparation is contaminated by Nocardia, the organisms can survive in the preparation and be infused into the gland during subsequent use of the antibiotic. In addition, if the teat end is not properly cleaned, dried, and thoroughly disinfected prior to infusion, organisms present on the teat may be forced through the streak canal into the udder during treatment. Although some herds may experience an outbreak of Nocardia mastitis, usually it is restricted to only a few cows within a herd. Generally Nocardia is not a problem in herds which follow a good hygiene program.

Mastitis caused by yeast and yeast-like fungi is similar in nature to Nocardia mastitis. Sources of outbreaks include contaminated antibiotic preparations and inadequate preparation of teat ends prior to treatment. Yeast are not bacteria and are, therefore resistant to antibiotics. Yeast will colonize the skin of cows, but generally are not considered invasive or contagious. Thus, they are opportunists and gain entrance into the gland through improper treatment procedures. Mastitis caused by yeast is rarely acute, but will cause a subclinical, chronic condition. Milk quality and quantity are adversely affected by yeast mastitis. Treatment is difficult; antimycotics have to be used.

The best protection against Nocardia and yeast mastitis infections is cleanliness. Keep stalls and loafing areas clean and dry; avoid dirt lots if possible. When treating, either during lactation or the dry period, use an aseptically prepared antibiotic and thoroughly clean and disinfect the teat end with alcohol prior to infusion. Avoid "home-brew" treatments and use of multiple infusions from the same bottle or syringe.

This article is one in a continuing series made available by the National Mastitis Council. For additional information, contact the NMC, 1840 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, VA 22201; (703) 243-8268.

Pen-Col Duquesne Goes To ABS

DeFOREST, WI — American Breeders Service has selected a young Holstein bull, Pen-Col R Duquesne-ET to enter their Progeny Testing Program. He was bred by Pen-Col Farms, Millville, Pennsylvania, sired by Arlinda Rotate and from Pen-Col Ijon Dreamer (VG), an Ijon daughter. The second dam in this high index pedigree is Pen-Col Bell Dream (VG), with CTPI of 1181 (7/88). Bell Dream has several descendents in the ABS progeny test program. The third dam is Pen-Col Conductor Devine.

Pen-Col R Duquesne-ET joins over 200 other young Holstein bulls being tested this year through the ABS testing program. After a four-year wait, his progeny will be evaluated and a decision made as to whether or not he qualifies to join the elite line-up of ABS proven sires.

ABS has the nation's largest A.I. progeny test program and supplies semen to each of the 50 states and to over 65 foreign countries.

Select Sires Reaches New Genetic Heights In 1988

PLAIN CITY, OH — "An organization is measured by quality, and genetic quality is what Select Sires is all about," remarked Richard Chichester, general manager of Select Sires, Inc. at the cooperative's 1989 annual meeting. "I'm proud to report another all-time high in genetic quality here at Select Sires in 1988. Of all the proven dairy sire semen that was sold, the average blend of all breeds was +1,171 PDM, +$138 and +1.14 PDT. Every single one of these numbers is an all-time high in the history of this organization.

These inspiring comments from Chichester generated enthusiasm among those attending Select's annual meeting, March 29-30, 1989. Delegates and directors from Select's 12 member co-ops gathered at the organization's Plain City facilities to review the federation's progress.

Chichester also reminded the group of the milestone achieved in 1988. "Clearly, the highlight of 1988 was the occupation of the Howard C. Kellgren Production Center. I greatly appreciate the efforts of Stan Cameron, vice president of Purchasing and plant manager, Howard Kellgren, vice president of Production, the Building Committee, and others who played a role in completing this state-of-the-art facility."

The cooperative's goals were summarized by this inspiring challenge from Chichester. "Select Sires is a respected name everywhere you go, whether it be in Europe, Asia, or South America. We are looked upon as a source of not only superior, but reliable genetics. Directors, I pledge to you that, we as employees, will give our very best effort in upholding this reputation."

The Year In Review

International marketing highlighted Select's banner year with semen being exported to 55 different countries around the world. "Record sales were made internationally in 1988 with a 28.3% unit and a 55.3% dollar increase over Select's previous best sales year of 1987," commented Blaine Crosser, vice president Select International.

Brazil was the top unit sales country in 1988. West Germany finished as top dollar country again followed closely by Italy and Holland. Excellent gains were also made in Argentina, Canada, Denmark, Hungary and Japan.

Beef sales for 1988 gained a unit increase of 23% over 1987. Roy Wallace, vice president in charge of Beef Programs, reported on these tremendous gains. "The combination of the genetics available through Select Sires and services provided by Select and its member organizations made 1988 a banner year for Select Sire beef sales."

Embryo freezing and exporting continue to dominate sales for Select Embryos. "Every indication is that this trend will only increase," comments Dr. Tye Henschen, general manager of Select Embryos. "In addition to the European market, we made some significant inroads into the South American market in 1988 through the dedicated efforts of Jerry Fickle, Latin America sales coordinator.

Special Recognition Extended

This year's meeting was dedicated to retiring president, Fred Friday, Hamilton, OH. Friday was devoted many years to Select, serving as a director since 1971 and president since 1984.

Friday comments on his service to Select, "One of the great success stories in the entire livestock industry is the initial formation and later growth of the Select Sires federation. It has been a source of genuine satisfaction to me to watch steady progress in the development of this organization. It is a story of dedicated employees, capable board members, and cooperative member organizations working together towards a common goal. The common goal, of course, is genetic improvement from a constant and reliable supply of superior sires."

Select's Board of Directors elected Clarence Boyke, Fond du Lac, WI, as the sixth president of the industry's largest A.I. cooperative. Prior to his new post, Boyke served as vice president, chairman of the Budget and Finance Committee, and a member of the Building Committee. His business knowledge and experience with member co-op, East Central/Select Sires, also enhance his new leadership role.

Bill Genasci, All-West/Select Sires, will serve as first vice president. VA-NC/Select Sires board member Walter Kingery Jr., was elected second vice president.

PGA Recognition Awards are presented annually to the member cooperatives that most efficiently manage the young sire program in their service areas. East Central/ Select Sires received the plaque for distributing the fewest units of PGA semen to generate the most identified young sire heifers (Heifer Efficiency Award). Minnesota/Select Sires was awarded the Cow Efficiency Award for identified milking daughters of PGA sires.

Select Sires, Inc., is a family of 12 farmer-owned and controlled cooperatives, serving the largest number of co-op members in the United States. 7H980 Walkway Chief Mark, the most extraordinary type and production sire of the decade, is an example of the superior genetics Select Sires offers. These results assist the federation in achieving its basic objective - to supply livestock breeders with the industry's top genetics.

Extension Celebration Marks 75 Years

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—If you could bring together all the trees that we're planted across the nation this week to celebrate 75 years of extension service, you would have a forest. Like many other county extension services, Lancaster Co. agents, legislators and local government officials ceremoniously planted a tree too. This tree, a katsura (Chinese love tree) had been planted last week in the Farm and Home Center lawn. So on Monday, local officials only had to stand out in the cool, windy weather for a short time to make record pictures for future generations.

James Nearhoff, Pennsylvania Nursery Association, said the local association choose to donate this type of tree because it is noted for long life. "Hopefully, both the tree and the extension service will be alive and productive when the next 75 years is celebrated," Nearhoff said.

In a public ceremony held in the auditorium, Max Smith, former county agent who was with extension 52 years, said that while programs, methods and technology has changed, the objectives of extension have never changed. "Extension still provides practical, reliable information to people just as it did 75 years ago," Smith said. "I think it's a unique educational setup that has federal, state and county funds and county people working together in a proven relationship.

"I'm proud to have been a part of it and I'm sure it will continue into the future," Smith said.

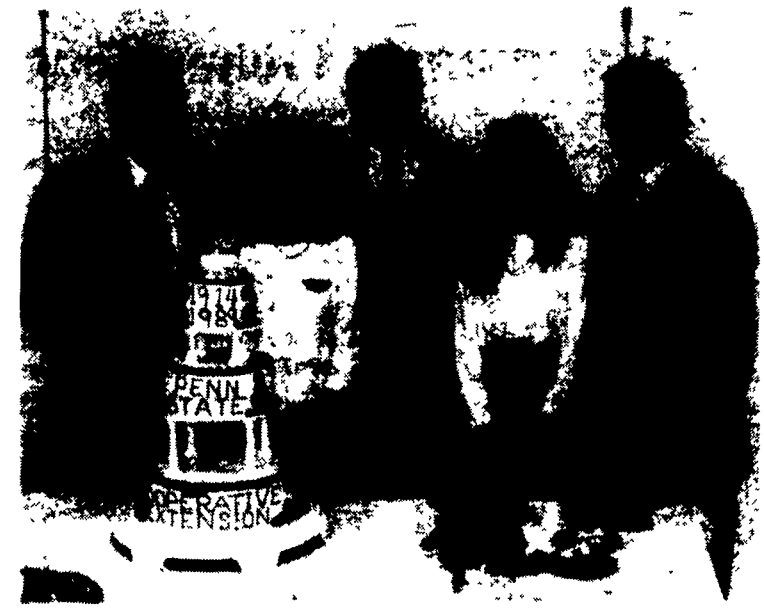
Darvin Boyd, president of the Farm and Home Foundation said improved agricultural and home economics techniques have been shared throughout the US by the extension service. "Unlike in the past, so many people who call for help are involved in the urban community," Boyd said.

Boyd used his eleven years experience in 4H as a youth to relate the usefulness of extension. And he quoted a thank you note he had written to Smith when he was 21 years old and just out of membership in 4-H. "Extension has been a part of the fiber of the county," Boyd said. "4-H helped me to grow into manhood just like it has helped thousands of other young people."

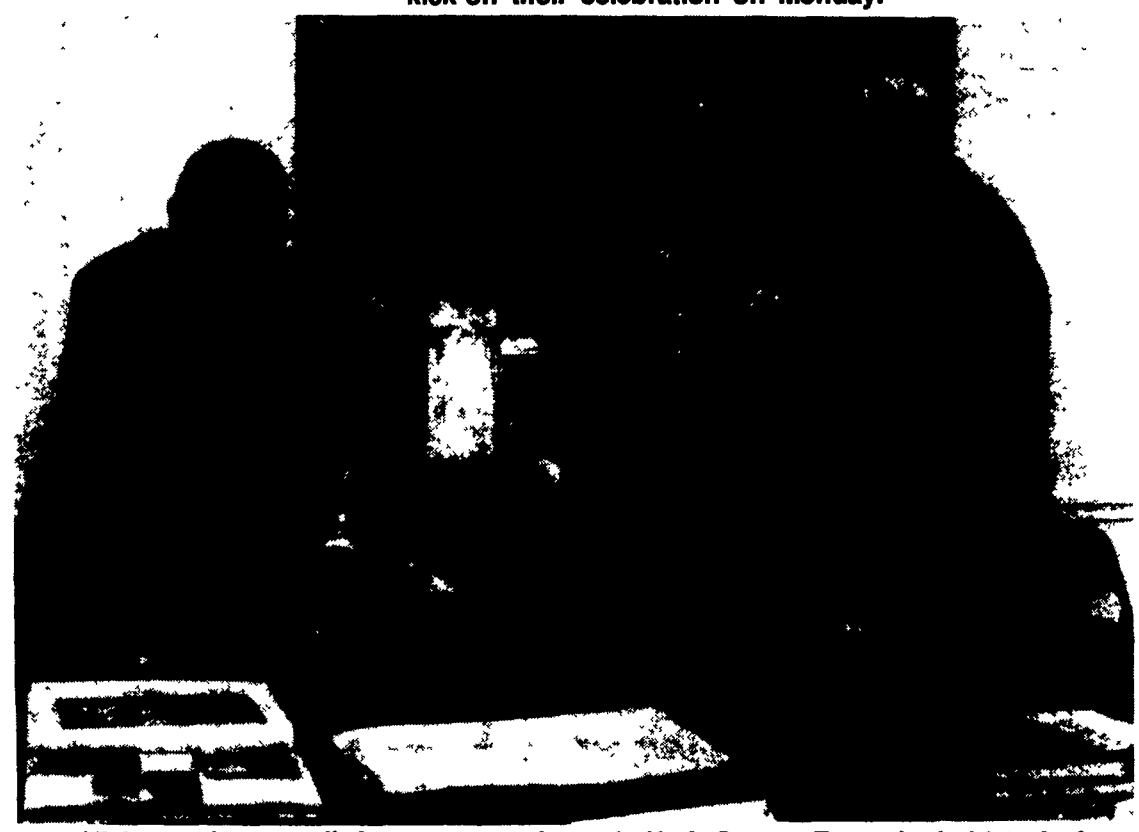
Noah Wenger, state senator, said he would pick the extension as the ideal government program. This well-structured program that goes outside the classroom is the envy of other nations.

James Huber, chairman, county commissioners, said it was exciting to see all branches of government working together to support extension over 75 years. And he read a proclamation that designated May 8-15 as Extension Week.

A cake decorating contest was held by the 4-H clubs with winners named as follows: 1. Krista Esbenshade; 2. Marlene Enck and 3. Sharon LeFevre. Ed Zug, extension board president, was the master of ceremonies. The Smith-Lever Act established the cooperative extension service as an educational arm of the land grant colleges in 1914.



George Trout, York County Commissioner, Beth Ann Shultz, 4-H member, Bill Rankin, Past President of Extension Executive Committee, Kendra Miller 4-H member and Tony Dobrosky, Head County Agent gather around the York County Cooperative Extension's 75th Anniversary Cake to kick-off their celebration on Monday.



Visitors take a stroll down memory lane via York County Extension's historical documents display. Pictured are: Charles Drawbaugh of Dover, Holly Barr of York, Reba and Clyde Golden of Shiloh.

Lebanon Countians were invited to attend the open house in the Extension office. Taking a look at the history of Lebanon County farming in a photographic album were Marie Steinmetz, left, and Amy Bollinger, both of Kleinfeltersville.

International Farm Leaders To Meet In St. Paul

LEESPORT (Berks) — New plants are being developed by the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS) for forage production, critical area stabilization, streambank protection and wildlife habitat development.

Robert Glennon, SCS plant materials specialist at Harrisburg, reports that 126 field planting trials were evaluated in Pennsylvania in 1988. Twenty-five of the plantings were newly established.

Glennon highlighted several of the most promising plant material evaluations. "Cave-In-Rock" switchgrass and "Niagara" Big Bluestem are good producing warm season forage grasses.

Two established legumes used for critical area treatment are showing good potential for cover crops and for forage. They are "Chemung" Crownvetch and "Lathco" Flatpea.

"Midwest" and "Roseglow" crabapples are developing into good wildlife food shrubs.

During the year, "Ruby" Redosier Dogwood was released for production in commercial nurseries. According to Glennon, this shrub gives Pennsylvania a new native shrub to protect and stabilize streambanks. "This shrub develops a strong root system," says Glennon, "and effectively holds soil against the turbulence of flowing water."

USDA Soil Conservation Service plant materials centers such as the Northeast Center at Big Flats, NY, collect and test new strains of plants to meet soil and water conservation needs.

Glennon cited the Environmental Protection Agency superfund site at Palmerton as an example. High concentrations of metals from a former zinc smelter had killed all vegetation on thousands of acres of mountainside. SCS and Penn State combined efforts to find plants and a nutrient supply that would restore vegetation on the bare eroding mountainside. "Success with trial plots has resulted in implementation of a program to vegetate 2,000 acres of mountain," reports Glennon.

Plants are a low cost, effective way to reduce soil erosion.

York County dairyman, Emory M. Kilgore, (center) was honored on his retirement from the board of the Southeast United Dairy Industry Association. Kilgore and his wife, Maybelle, accepted his engraved cowbell award from SUDIA President N. Glen Goebel, during the organization's recent annual meeting in Atlanta, Georgia. Kilgore's thirty years as a dairy promotion leader include serving on the SUDIA board since 1983, and the board of the Dairy Council of the Upper Chesapeake Bay since the mid-1950's.

HUGHSON, CA — MR Paramount I ROYAL FLUSH-et, Reg. #2061019, a young Holstein bull bred by Paramount Holsteins I, Scenery Hill, PA, has been selected for sampling in the young sire proving program of Landmark Genetics. His semen has just been released for use in herds on official DHIA test throughout the United States.

As a member of Landmark Genetics' "GO" (Genetic Opportunity) program, ROYAL FLUSH is undergoing thorough testing. He has successfully passed his health tests and the goal now is to get a minimum of 50 daughters milking in 40 herds across the U.S. for a high repeatability on his first proof.

Larry Schirm, Regional Sire Analyst for the International, artificial breeding company, said, "We've selected this youngster because of his outstanding bloodlines."

ROYAL FLUSH is a Royalty son, the exciting protein sire of hard topped, silky hided cows with correct rump slope and outstanding feet. These deep ribbed cows also have strong ligaments and correct teat placement.

The calf, born on March 27, will be entered in the Pennsylvania All-American Jersey Show, September 28.

The juniors are also making plans for a summer seminar in July. The seminar will include fitting and showing demonstrations, a discussion about dairy judging, and lots of fun. Watch for future notices for the specific date and location.

The PJJCC officers and advisors would like all Jersey juniors' to send their name, address, county, parent's name, and telephone number to Debbie Moose, c/o Over-Night Jerseys, Box 1000, W. Act 145: Tax Reform Referendum additional burden on the small businesses throughout the state which make up the backbone of the commonwealth's economy due to increased taxes and additional work to compute taxes for employees.

In closing Baldridge said his group did not see Act 145 as the answer to much needed local tax reform and that LCCI did have alternatives. Baldridge said he hoped discussion on alternatives to Act 145 could begin May 17.

Desomond said the League of Women Voters supports Act 145 because the personal income tax is a much fairer method of taxation than the property tax.

"It is more clearly related to one's ability to pay. It is a more balanced system with no one group bearing excessive burden," said Desmond. "It is simple and easy to calculate and collect unlike the real estate tax which is calculated on many formulas. "

Spray a raincoat on your forage crops.

Growers and university research prove Nutri-Shield cuts forage losses and saves you money.

One lesson we all learned in 1988 is that a bale of alfalfa, or any other hay, is valuable enough to be protected. Another thing we learned from foragae growers coast-to-coast is that our product, Nutri-Shield, protects forage crops as well as three years of testing had already convinced us it would. In case you haven't yet tried Nutri-Shield, here's what it will do for you:

1. Form a protective coat over your forage that repels water.
2. Retain more of the protein and TDN that is in your forage when it is harvested.
3. Preserve more of the nutritious alfalfa leaves.
4. Help keep your big round bales firm and round longer.
5. Inhibit mold and rot by shielding your forage crops from moisture.
6. Do the above for less money and labor than other methods.

For more information on Nutri-Shield, including the experience of users from all parts of the country plus research from leading universities, call or write:

Pennsylvania Counties Celebrate Extension's 75th Anniversary

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Pennsylvania counties cooperative extension and Penn State's College of Agriculture celebrated the birth of an American institution this week.

The cooperative extension was born on May 8, 1914. On this date the U.S. Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act which provided funds to create county extension offices through out the country.

Cooperative extension is an uniquely American educational system which helps people in their communities improve their lives by applying the results of university research through practical education programs.

Cooperative extension makes new technologies relevant to the needs of the citizens. Extension agents provide new knowledge and practical expertise in areas vital to the development of the country, including rural development, nutrition, pest control, farm management, and family and economic well-being. An important part of extension's efforts is organizing and advising the youth clubs that make up the 4-H program.

Joining in the national observance of the 75th anniversary of Cooperative Extension were Adams countians, from left, Thomas Collins, president of the Adams County board of commissioners; Thomas E. COW FLOW MANAGEMENT

The Surge Express Parlor Stall, designed and built by Nielsen, is one of the finest cow flow management systems in the industry today Why a cow flow management system? Because the Express Stall moves the cows quickly and smoothly through the parlor with a quick entry position, adjustable milking position and quick exit

Cow comfort is one of the outstanding features of the Surge Express Stall contributing to smooth,fluid cow flow Design and operation takes into consideration the cow's natural tendencies as she moves through the parlor, achieving optimum cow flow and comfort

- Rapid Entry — Opening to an approximate 40" entry lane, attracts cows to walk in faster with more comfort and less worry of injury (Not required to walk on grates)
- Adjustable Milk Position — A tight fit milking position minimizes the cows movement during milking, holding the cows close to the operator and reducing unit readjustment from continually shifting cows
- Rapid Exit — Stall gates rotate away from the cow directing her to exit The cow s natural tendency is to move out with the stall movement
- Simplicity — Stall design allows easy assembly and disassembly whenever necessary
- Low Operating Cost — Only one air cylinder per row of 20 stalls is needed to move stalls into position

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

a heavy presumption that laws enacted by the General Assembly are constitutional. Anyone challenging the constitutionality must prove a statute is in clear violation of the state constitution in order to win his challenge. Also, in interpreting state constitutional amendments, our courts look beyond the bare language of the amendment to the history surrounding the amendment's adoption and approval by the legislature and the voters of Pennsylvania. A look at the history of the proposed constitutional amendment and tax reform legislation show that farms and farmland were intended by the legislature and are understood to be intended by the voters. Sure, tax reform "may" be unconstitutional, just as the sun "may" not rise tomorrow. The real question is whether either is likely to happen.

Thirdly, while it is true that some capital gains effects may arise under tax reform, such a statement cannot be considered in a vacuum. The taxability of income under local tax reform will be determined by state income tax laws. Our state laws provide several capital gains exclusions and deferrals which will be applicable to local income taxation, including the $100,000 exclusion for sale of a primary residence by a person 55 years old and older and the nonrecognition of gain on proceeds used to replace property items lost through involuntary occurrences such as condemnation and fire. Also, if a farmer would sell to his son and receive payment monies in installment rather than lump-sum, only that portion of the capital gains related to those payments actually received during the year would be taxable. These examples show that the real effects of local taxation of capital gains may not be nearly as great as originally perceived.

Finally, neither the May 6 article nor any other news article seem to be focusing on what opponents of Act 145 are offering in its place to bring about true tax reform. There is a keen interest and support for reform of our outmoded and unfair system of local taxation in this state. Why, then, have those legislators spearheading opposition for Act 145 offered no alternative solution to bring about needed reforms? Why did many of these same legislators vote in favor of a tax reform proposal last year that was nearly identical to the legislation proposed in Act 145? Do you think the General Assembly will be willing to deal with the issue of tax reform if the voters of Pennsylvania register a negative vote on Act 145? Given the fact that it has taken nearly a decade for our legislature to deal with the issue of tax reform at all, the prospects are not likely.

People can speculate on the positive and negative effects of Act 145 on various taxpaying groups. One thing is certain, however. A "no" vote on the referendum ballot question will guarantee that Pennsylvanians will be stuck with our current local taxing system, which continues to impose heavy real property tax burdens and provides local governments the means to tax everything but income, for many years to come.

WINNERS AND LOSERS

Trying to compute your personal winnings or losses will be difficult, to say the least. I don't have the space to detail all of the ramifications of act 145. I did try to point out some parts of the act that I didn't see in other accounts of the act. One thing is certain, the government will need more money to operate. How they collect it will be up to the voters. You have the opportunity to voice your opinion. Don't throw it away.

A Mother's Perspective:
Wait Until You Have A Child Of Your Own

By Sharon Schuster
Maryland Correspondent

NEW WINDSOR, MD — It has been five years since her untimely passing at age 54. I still mourn for my mother, but the tearful times have given way to fond memories which bring a smile to my face. Time does heal all wounds - it just takes longer for some. But the best balm for my broken heart is a new perspective on Mother's Day - now I AM a mother!

"Wait until you have a child of your own . . ." Those words of wisdom that my mother said to me during the times she corrected me 'for my own good,' came true. My mother was my friend and the best teacher I ever had. But having a mother and being a mother are very different roles in life.

Rachael is eight months old now. I remember bringing home the tiny six-pound bundle, our daughter. Isn't it amazing that someone so small and new wields such power over everyone in the family? She was doll-like in size, but she had personality the size of Mt. Rushmore - she was a little person.

From the moment I first held her newborn body in my arms, Motherhood descended upon me like a force I have never known. It was a second nature that compelled me to hover over the bassinet during the first few weeks of her life to make sure she was still breathing, and to have superhuman selective hearing that enabled only me to single out her voice from amongst the chorus of cries in the church nursery downstairs.

The most interesting part of being a mother is watching the development, both mental and physical, of a child. She came to us with a mind like a sponge, eager to absorb anything new. My mother told me that one of the most important things a mother can do is "read to your child. I read to you from day one," she so often reminded me. I remembered that sage advice and began reading books to Rachael the day she came home.

At only three days old, she seemed to show a preference for rhymes. And as she came to notice pictures, bold black and white pictures of faces caught her eye. I played the piano for her and spoke to her in Spanish. She loves music and songs, which we do every day.

'They grow so fast.' I mark the progress Rachael makes by recording the milestones in her 'baby book,' and then I compare with the various childrearing books and magazines. I puff with pride when I see that Rachael has mastered some things early. She is so bright. (Now doesn't that sound like a mother talking?) The only thing that could make the statement more motherly is to add: "But it's not just because she's MY daughter, you understand."

The first smile, her first tooth, first foods, sitting up, pulling up, visits to the pediatrician, immunizations, weight, length, head size - it's all in there, in the 'baby book.' A few times I have gotten behind in my jottings, and some of the entries are a bit sparse. Five months old was during the holiday season, when I found myself shopping, wrapping, entertaining, etc. It is the only month in the book that doesn't have a set of hand and foot prints. How she has grown since the first set at one month old!

When my dear little energetic perpetual motion machine has finally collapsed in the crib for the night, I sometimes steal just a few minutes to read entries in her book:

One month - slept a lot, rolled over, smiled (Aunt Roxie said that babies smile when agels are kissing them), ate 4 ounce of milk every four hours, began to sleep all the way through the night at two weeks (unbelievable, but TRUE!), likes to sit holding onto fingers, not much hair . . .

Two months - makes noises and shapes with her mouth, started rice cereal, likes to stand in lap holding onto hands, not much hair . . .

Three months - sees things better, eyes blue and clearer, trying to roll over, discovered hands, makes cooing noises, likes noises and mobiles, trying to roll over, moved to big crib in nursery, not much hair . . .

Four months - reaches for objects, discovered feet, loves standing, smiles a lot, loves baths, likes getting kisses, 13.5 pounds, started vegetables, not much hair . . .

Five months - first tooth popped through the bottom and the second was just a couple of days behind, tries to hold bottle, everything goes into her mouth for further exploration, laughs aloud, pleasant, likes songs, was Baby Jesus in the Sunday School Christmas program, not much hair . . .

Six months - holds own bottle, rolls over, stands by self holding on to furniture, uses walker with ease, makes respberries, ticklish, laughs and smiles a lot, loves peek-a-boo, sits well, touches and plays with toys, 16 pounds, not much hair . . .

Seven months - lots of progress, pulls self into standing position, holds onto furniture and walks, more physical activities, crawls, wears large clothes, talks a lot, holds spoon and drinks from cup as well as bottle, still sleeps from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m., says "da-da," two top front teeth popped through, not much hair . . .

Eight months - walks holding onto furniture with ease, confident, explores, likes interaction, tries to feed herself, says "Ma-Ma," still not much hair . . .

I enjoy shopping for Rachael. It is so much fun to head right for the kiddie department and sort through the endless racks of monogrammed, ruffled, and smocked creations in a sea of pink. In years past I threw only an occasional passing glance toward the children's department when shopping. Now I'm reliving my girlhood days of dressing up dolly, only it's with a real live baby doll this time around. Even more fun is shopping with Rachael. Heads turn and people ooh and aah and tell me how beautiful she is. She IS pretty - and I'm not just saying that because I'm her mother!

Perhaps the best part of being a mother is the relationship that develops. Rachael and I share time that is very special. Our relationship is unique from all others we have in the world. I try to give her the best in me and we share very special moments that I have never experienced with anyone else. We carry on conversations, accommodating for her developing language skills by putting a greater emphasis on body language, intonation and facial expressions. Her long loud strings of consonant and

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Did you ever really think about windows?

Well, I certainly never did. Windows were just a convenience in a building for looking outside from the inside. To check the weather. Enjoy a pretty view. See what's happening in the neighborhood.

And to be thoroughly washed at least once a year, whether they need it or not.

No more. When I look at a building, I see the windows...I mean, really SEE the windows.

What color are the frames? How large are they? Are the windows plain, old rectangular or do they have special decorative touches?

Yes, there is a reason for this change in my appreciation level for the finer points of windows. You see, one day last week, I spent several hours being introduced to the window manufacturing business by Dennis Kelly, vice-president, engineering, for Graham Architectural Products Corporation.

Dennis' and my jobs were paired in the York Chamber of Commerce's Ag Day Exchange program. Purpose of this popular exchange is to "have two people in totally different job circumstances get a true flavor of what each does in a typical day," explained the introductory letter.

Graham Architectural specializes in a unique type of window business, the manufacture of replacement windows for commercial buildings. These are generally much larger windows than the sort on your home and mine. They are designed for schools, colleges, hotels and restoration of old, historic buildings. Their aluminum structure often reproduces the intricate craftsmanship of woodworkers who crafted original windows a century or more ago.

After sharing background information on the firm, less than ten miles from our front door, Dennis took me on an extensive and fascinating tour of window making. From intricate computer design (no more penciled blueprints), to heat-baked painting applications, to extreme-weather testing, to final careful packaging of these sometimes huge aluminum-and-glass sections, the business demands constant attention to quality and safety.

The day before, Dennis had arrived at our front door at a chilly 7 a.m., for his day of dairy farming. He was soon dipping and cleaning udders, putting on milkers and learned fast to keep an eye in all directions when working in an alley with the business-end of cows in close proximity on both sides.

Then it was on to feeding the young stock, as Dennis delivered bottles to a dozen baby calves, scooped feed for heifers, fed hay and helped bed pens with straw. He bravely went to scattering straw, surrounded by at least ten inquisitive, 300-pound "pets" (read pests) sniffing his boots and trying to nibble his pockets. Only later, did I realize he did not know that cows have teeth only on the bottom, and cannot bite.

While we had hoped to give him a feel for fieldwork, perhaps a round or two of disking or harrowing, rains had left the soil too damp for that. Instead, the week found us deep - literally - into one of the least glamorous of all farm jobs; emptying the manure storage. Dennis good-naturedly observed the process and hopped aboard a loaded tractor-tank hauling rig.

With a registry deadline close for a trio of weaned calves, I imposed on Dennis' engineering background. Armed with clipboards, pencils and calf registry applications, we singled out two of the calves which needed sketching. He very ably drew off a mostly black calf with white feet and belly, in spite of more curious nibbling at pockets by our friendly bovine youngsters.

Neither of us, I'm pretty sure, is ready to switch careers. But, several people in our tiny corner of the universe now have much greater insight and understanding of different sorts of life's work, thanks to the Ag Day Exchange.

And, boy, it's certainly given me a new outlook on windows.

A Mother's Perspective

vowel sounds (ba,ba, wa,wa, da,da . . .) are punctuated by 'making raspberries' and 'pig snoots.' I understand her (most of the time) and she seems to understand me (most of the time). We mimick each other like mirror images, becoming closer with each new conversation we have.

And, most profound, is the love that I have for my daughter. It's an unconditional love. I would lay down my life if need be for her. I had that feeling of security from my mother. I sense that Rachael sees that in me. Not overprotection - but rather safety, with plenty of room for exploration with encouragement, guidance, and confidence.

I'm proud of my little girl. She is the bright spot in every day. There is nothing more pleasing to me than to see her smiling face, eyes wide with wonderment, greet me every morning. "Good morning Doodle-Bug! Did you sleep well?" Her outstretched arms soon find their way around my neck and we swap good morning hugs and kisses.

Rachael is fourth generation on the family farm. Though my mother is not with us here in this life, she lives vividly in my memory. I need only look in the mirror to see her face. I was fortunate as a child to have known both sets of grandparents, and I am richer for the experience. Rachael is lucky, too, that she is adored by her paternal grandparents as well as my father. And her great-grandmother, whose middle name (Emily) she carries, has shared some special times with her too. Rachael Emilijean will come to know and cherish the memory of her grandmother, Jean Burleson, through me.

After-The-Sale Services Important

Smart consumers look for much more than just the color, shape and brand of the major appliances they buy. They also evaluate the services that come with the appliance because they know that after-the-sale support represents the manufacturer's commitment to its product and its customer.

Manufacturers note that strong warranties top the consumer's list of important features when buying a new appliance. A full warranty means the manufacturer covers both parts and labor during the first year of ownership. In addition, some companies also offer additional warranties on major components (such as refrigerator compressors and microwave oven magnetrons) with relatively high parts costs. Before you buy such a warranty, review it carefully and check to see that it will be honored anywhere in the United States. One other thing to check: Be sure that service and parts are readily available in your local area.

The quality of after-the-sale services can make the difference between satisfaction or frustration with a major appliance. For example, look for a use and care guide that is well-illustrated and easy to understand. Also check to see if the manufacturer offers a do-it-yourself repair manual for your appliance. A well-illustrated step-by-step repair manual can help you take care of simple repairs and save you both time and money.

A toll-free telephone number is another after-the-sale service that is designed to help appliance owners. Eight hundred numbers offer quick contact with the manufacturer, immediate answers to questions and quick resolution of problems. For example, one leading manufacturer's toll-free telephone service responded to about 700,000 customer calls last year. Eight hundred numbers have been offered by appliance manufacturers for over 20 years.

Eight hundred service calls really run the gamut! Some people think of toll-free numbers as complaint lines, but less than 6% of calls come from unhappy customers. Most callers ask questions about proper use and care of new appliances, want product literature or product manuals, or ask for the nearest service location. Some ask for do-it-yourself information and others call just to say they like a product.

When calling a toll-free customer assistance line with a product-related question, be sure to have the model and serial number on hand so that the consultant can quickly identify your specific model.

Microwaving Dairy Foods

Is yours one of the three out of four households that are riding the "wave" of the future? The microwave that is. Microwaving is today's answer to today's busy world. This time-saving convenience lets the busiest person enjoy the right foods in delicious meals. Nutritious, calcium-rich dairy foods lend themselves perfectly to microwaving.

Here are some microwave tips for dairy foods. Use them to bring more calcium and other nutrients, protein, vitamin D and riboflavin, that dairy products supply to your diet:

For quick nachos, place 2 cups tortilla chips in a microwave-safe plate. Top with 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese and 2 tablespoons taco sauce. Microwave on medium (50% power) until melted, 1 to 2 minutes.

To scald milk, microwave 1 cup milk on medium in a 2-cup glass measure for 2½ to 4 minutes or on high (100% power) for 1½ ro 2½ minutes. To avoid a boil-over, watch milk as it approaches the minimum cooking time.

To soften an 8-ounce package of cream cheese, remove wrapper and place on wax paper. Microwave on low (10% power) for 30 seconds to 1 minute.

MANDY'S WHITE CAKE

2¾ cups sifted white flour (bleached)
1⅔ cups sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
⅔ cup white shortening
5 egg whites
⅓ cup milk
1 teaspoon white vanilla
2 drops blue food coloring

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare two layer pans with a generous coating of a mixture of 2 parts shortening and 1 part flour. In large mixer bowl, mix dry ingredients, then add shortening and the first measure of milk. Mix at medium speed for two minutes, scraping down bowl afterwards. Add egg whites, remaining milk, vanilla and blue food coloring and beat for two more minutes. Transfer to pans and bake for 35 to 45 minutes. When done, toothpick inserted in center will come out clean. Cool on rack for 15 minutes, then remove from pans.

Contributor writes, "Remember when you were a kid, and you looked in the back of the refrigerator and found a piece of wedding cake wrapped up in a napkin from the wedding reception about a week ago? And it was still heavy and moist after all that? Well, this is THAT wedding cake recipe! All white ingredients. Even a couple drops of blue food coloring to fool the eye into thinking it's even whiter! (Your mom used Bluing for the white wash, remember?) A heavy, "tight" cake, this one is a crowd pleaser! Hope you have the same great success as I've had with it."

1 heaping tablespoon cornstarch or clear jell
1 cup water

Cook sugar, water and cornstarch until thick. Add blueberries and bring to a boil. Cool. This is enough for a double recipe of dough. Makes approximately 5 dozen cookies.

Win A Cow With Dairy Recipe

June is Dairy month. Send in a recipe using at least one dairy ingredient such as milk, butter, cheese, cream, and yogurt, and your name will be entered in a drawing to win a free cow.

Admittedly, these do not give milk, but local artists have created a variety of the bovine creatures to hang on your wall or set on a shelf. A towel, a note pad and a coffee mug featuring a cow will also be given away. A furry cow that actually walks, moos and wags its tail will delight young and old alike.

Only one recipe per family allowed. Be sure to include your name, address and phone number. We'd also enjoy hearing a little bit about you and your family. If your have a picture, include that also. Picture and write-up are not required to be eligible for the drawing.

Winners will be announced in the June 24 issue of Lancaster Farming. Send your recipe to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Drawing; P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

Flaky Cheese Twists

2½ cups instant-type flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup unsalted butter, chilled and cut into bits
½ cup ice water, or as needed
1 cup finely grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon paprika
¾ teaspoon coarse (kosher or sea) salt
2 tablespoons very fine, dry bread crumbs
1 egg
1 tablespoon water

Whisk together the flour and 1 teaspoon salt thoroughly. Add the butter bits and, using your fingers or a pastry blender, blend into a flaky mixture. Sprinkle in the ice water gradually and mix lightly with a fork. Add just enough water to make the dough bits adhere to each other; don't overmix. Form the dough into a brick, wrap in plastic and chill for at least 1 hour, or as long as 12 hours.

When ready to bake the twists, halve the pastry; return one half to the refrigerator and roll out remaining half on a lightly floured surface to make a 8x12-inch rectangle. Turn the pastry so that a long side faces you and brush off all surplus flour. Fold the short ends to meet in the center and again brush of the flour. Then fold the pastry like a book where the ends meet at the center. Roll the folded pastry quickly, this time to an oblong measuring 7x10-inches.

Working quickly, repeat the folding, brushing, and rolling twice (a total of three foldings and rollings) ending up with a 7x10-inch oblong. You can stop at any point to refrigerate the dough if it gets too soft.

Cover a large baking sheet with waxed paper and sprinkle it lightly with flour. Lay the pastry on the paper and roll it out to 9x12 inches. Chill. Roll and fold the second half of pastry. Chill both halves uncovered for 30 minutes, or cover closely with plastic and chill up to 12 hours.

Combine the cheese, paprika, coarse salt, and bread crumbs in a bowl. Beat the egg with the 1 tablespoon water in another bowl. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.

Slide one sheet of dough and waxed paper onto work surface. Brush dough lightly with the egg mixture and sprinkle it with one-fourth of the cheese mixture pressing it into the surface. Cover with another sheet of waxed paper and turn the dough over. Peel off the waxed paper and coat with egg mixture and one-fourth the cheese mixture, pressing it in as before.

Quarter the sheet of dough (a pastry wheel works well), then cut each quarter into strips that are ½ -inch wide and 4 inches long. Twist each strip to pencil thinness and place them, ½ -inch apart, on an ungreased baking sheet. Press the ends of the twists onto the pan to prevent unrolling.

Bake for about 10 minutes, until the cheese sticks are golden brown; then remove to racks to cool. When cool, trim off any unsightly flattened ends.

Repeat the baking and forming for the second half of dough. When all are done, store in an air-tight container for up to 2 weeks in the refrigerator or up to a week at room temperature. The baked twists may be frozen. However stored, they improve with brief warming before serving.

ANSWER — Patricia Berry, Newville, requested a recipe for chocolate shoo-fly pie. Thanks to Maxine Bartholomew of Orangeville, Kathryn Graby of Annville, and a Harrisburg reader for sharing theirs.

Chocolate Shoo-Fly Pie

2 cups molasses
2 cups hot water
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
½ cup cocoa
2 teaspoons baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
5 cups flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cocoa
2 eggs
2 cups water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

For topping, mix molasses, 2 cups hot water, and 2 teaspoons vanilla; set aside. Cream 2 eggs, brown sugar, and shortening; add ½ cup cocoa, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, and 5 cups flour. Add molasses mixture.

Bring 2 cups water to boil; add remaining ingredients and cook until thickened. Pour into 6 unbaked pie shells; add topping. Bake for 1 hour in 350-degree oven. Frost with chocolate frosting if desired.

Chocolate Syrup Shoo-Fly Pie

9-inch unbaked pie shell
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1⅓ cups boiling water
1-pound can chocolate syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1⅓ cups flour
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt

Dissolve ¼ teaspoon baking soda in boiling water. Stir in chocolate syrup and vanilla and set aside. Combine flour, sugar, salt, and remaining baking soda. Cut in butter to form coarse crumbs. Set aside 1 cup of each chocolate mixture and crumbs. Gently combine remaining chocolate mixture and crumbs until moistened. Mixture will be lumpy. Pour reserved chocolate into pie shell; pour chocolate and crumb mixture evenly over chocolate. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs; Bake in 370-degree oven for 1 hour cool.

CHEESE BRUNCH BUNS

2 cups milk
⅓ cup shortening
5¼ to 6¼ cups flour
⅓ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 packages active dry yeast
2 eggs
½ cup butter or margarine

Combine milk and shortening in a saucepan. Heat over medium heat until very warm. Place 4 cups flour, sugar, salt, and yeast in bowl. Stir in ingredients. Gradually add warm liquid in bowl, knead about 2 minutes. Add eggs and knead 2 minutes more.

Add remaining flour, ½ cup at a time, until dough clings to hook and cleans sides of bowl. Knead for 5 to 7 minutes or until dough is smooth and elastic.

Place in a greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down and divide in half. Roll to a 16x8x¼ -inch rectangle. Spread half of cheese filling over dough. Roll dough tightly from longest side, pinching seam together to seal. Cut into 16 1-inch slices. Repeat with remaining ingredients.

Melt butter and generously grease bottom of two 9x13x2-inch pans. Place buns cut side down in buttered pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Invert pans on wire racks. Serve warm. Yields: 32 buns.

Cheese filling:

3 jars (5 ounces each) sharp process cheese spread
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
¼ teaspoon onion powder
¼ teaspoon Beau Monde seasoning
1 teaspoon dill weed
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash cayenne pepper

Place all ingredients in bowl. Beat until thoroughly combined, about 2 minutes.

Question Corner

ANSWER — Lucy Hoover, Ephrata, requested a recipe for making Swiss cheese. She also wanted to know where to purchase rennet tablets. Thanks to Mrs. Christ King, Kinzer, and M. Cunfer, Lehighton, for sending rennet tablet sources and to Anna Nolt, New Holland, for an answer to both. Thanks also to Leon Shirk, Hamburg, who recommended reading "Cheese Making Made Easy" by Ricki and Robert Carroll. The book may be obtained by writing New England Cheese Making Supply Co., PO Box 85, Ashfield, ME 01330.

Purchase rennet tablets by writing to Caprine Supply, PO Box Y, 22001 W. 83rd St., DeSoto, KS 66018; New England Cheesemaking Supply Co., PO Box 85, Ashfield, ME 01330; Garden Way Country Kitchen Catalog, 48 Maple St., PO Box 944, Burlington, VT 05401; or Family Health Foods, R.R. 1, Box 129, Arthur, IL 61911.

Swiss Cheese

2 gallons whole milk
2 gallons skim milk
Rennet tablets
½ cup cool water

Heat milks to 91 degrees. Add half a rennet tablet dissolved in water. Let milk set undisturbed for 30 minutes or until it breaks easily from sides of container. Heat to 99 degrees while stirring and breaking the curds into small pieces. Remove from heat and let set 15 minutes. Pour the whey off and pack curds into a cheese cloth-lined press. Keep in the press until the next morning. Remove and salt the cheese all over. Salt again the next morning. Let it cure for at least 2 weeks. If mold forms, wash off with salt water.

During the summer it can be cured in the refrigerator. The best temperature is 40 to 50 degrees, although it can be cured at lower temperatures.

ANSWER — Delores Hilty, Spring Grove, wanted a recipe for a dried spagetti sauce mix like those found in McCommick® or French® packages. Thanks to Mrs. Christ King, Kinzers, for sending one in.

Spaghetti Seasoning Mix

1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 teaspoons green pepper flakes
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon instant minced garlic
1 teaspoon sugar
¾ teaspoon Italian seasonings

Combine all ingredients until evenly distributed.

ANSWER — Priscilla Dimmig, Slatington, requested a recipe for making buttermilk. Thanks to Mrs. Christ King, Kinzers, for sending in hers.

Cultured Buttermilk

¼ cup fresh cultured buttermilk (must be cultured)
Pasteurized milk

Pour buttermilk into a clean, scalded quart jar. Fill jar to top with milk. Seal with clean cap, shake, and allow to stand for 24 hours at room temperature. This makes 1 quart fresh butter milk. Refrigerate and use as needed. The culture can be continued by repeating the process using ¼ cup of your buttermilk.

Kid's Korner

Hi. My name is Rebecca Woodrick, age 8. I like my mom because she buys me toys. She is a good cook. She is pretty. She is neat. I LOVE HER.

Rebecca Woodrick
Bellmead, NJ

We like our mother because she is kind. She makes our meals. She sews and mends our clothes. She also takes us to the store and sometimes buys us some gum. She buys us food, too. She takes care of us when we are sick and hurt. We like to surprise her by doing her work when she is out hoeing and weeding. We are glad she is our mother. Happy Mother's Day, Mom.

Brenda and Anna Zimmerman
Lancaster

Happy Mother's Day, Mom!

I am Lena Mae Weaver. I am in third grade and I am eight years old. I like Mom because she makes good things to eat. She sews nice dresses for me. I like Mom.

Love,
Lena Mae Weaver

Dear Friends,

Hi! My name is Rose Ellen Zimmerman. I am nine years old. I am in third grade. I go to Buffalo Springs School. I like to read the Lancaster Farming Kid's Korner. I like to read the letters, too.

I have two sisters and one brother. I ma the oldest of the family. Linda is eight. Carol is one. Jay Kenneth is five. Linda has a second name. It is Jane. Carol does, too. It is Ann.

I wanted to write a letter a long time ago already. We had some pine trees but we cut them down. Today a tractor came to our place to dig out the stumps. There was a dump truck here to haul the stumps around. We had some rides in the dump truck too. That was fun. Our neighbors went to Texas to do missionary work. They have a greenhouse. We are running the greenhouse this year. Right now my mom is down in the greenhouse. We raise hydroponic tomatoes. I never knew there was so much work to a greenhouse.

I like school. My teacher is Erma W. Hoover. Linda is in second grade. I have only one classmate that is a girl. Her name is Thelma M. Horst. We have a lot of fun together. I have th asthma. If you do not know the word, look it up in the dictionary. At school we worked for points so we could go on a hike. Then I had an attack and could not go along. I like to draw. Do you? Do you like to write letters. I do. If you don't you do not know what you are missing out on. I like to color too. We do not live on a farm. I wish we would. If you live on a farm and wish you didn't you do not know something. I wish I lived on a farm. When I was little, I lived on a farm. Well, this is the longest letter I ever wrote. I gues I will have to close so bye bye.

Love,
Rose

Mom is special to me because she cooks good stuff, bakes for market, and helps milk our cows.

Levi A. Welton

Mom is special to me because she made me a saddle bag for Christmas. She takes good care of our littlest sister Elsie, age 2, and she helps us when we get cut or hurt.

Billi Kaye Welton
age 13

Mom is good to me. She reads to me and she goes for walks with us.

Elly Caroline Welton
age 6

I like my mother because she cares. She helps me make and decide a lot of problems and decisions. My mother is kind and friendly to all of my friends. She can always tell when I'm not telling the truth, when I'm really asleep and all the other little tricks I play. My mother teases me a lot, but she is still very special to me. And I love her very much and always will.

Kris Schlegel
Topton

About 32 years ago my mother was born. She was born and raised in Ohio. She is grown and an adult now. She is very soothing when it comes to hurt animals and children. She has a warm smile and is friendly.

Her blending hair colors are dirty-blond and brown. She is tall and skinny. And her cookies are GREAT!

Love to the hole family
Erin Kelly, Virginville

Dear Mother,

I like to surprise you through the Lancaster Farming. I hope I did. My parents names are Benuel and Sara Stoltzfus.

Happy Mother's Day to you!

Your daughter,
Priscilla Stoltzfus, Honey Brook

Storybook For Little Folks

MOLINE, IL. — "Family Reunion," a new children's storybook, is the third book of the "John Deere storybooks for Little Folks" series to be published by Deere & Company. "Johnny Tractor and His Pals" and "Corny Cornpicker Finds a Home" were republished last year after being originally published 30 years ago.

"This book is a natural extension of the previous books," said Ralph Hughes, Deere & Company director of advertising. "Even though the story takes place today, the setting is Farmer Fowler's farm where the first two stories occurred."

The story, written by Lois and J.R. Hobbs and Kris Carr, centers around four old farm tractors that share past adventures and take part in an antique tractor show where they are reunited with similar old tractors.

Roy Bostrom, a retired Deere & Company staff artist, illustrated "Family Reunion" and the first two books.

The 8 1/2 x 11-inch book includes 20 pages of full-color illustrations. It will be available from John Deere dealers throughout the United States on June 1. Suggested retail price is $2.95.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

What kind of microwave oven should I buy? What's the best wattage? What features are worth the price? What's new in microwave ovens?

I can't recommend one brand over another, because the majority of microwave ovens on the market today are high-quality and work well. I don't think you'd be disappointed in any of the major brands.

What's the best wattage?—

The best wattage to buy depends on how you'll use the microwave, the space you have for it, and the price you want to pay.

Standard-size microwave ovens are usually of 650- to 750-watt output. They have an inside capacity of over one cubic foot. They are the largest size and are usually the most expensive (although cost also depends on the features included). Smaller microwave ovens — in shopping terms, compact, mid-size, or a mini-microwave, called sub-compact — are usually 400- to 600-watt and less expensive. However, some smaller microwave ovens have the same features as standard-size ovens, which increases the price.

A standard-size microwave is best if you plan to cook for three or more people. However, a smaller oven would work if you plan only to reheat or thaw. A smaller microwave is fine for cooking for one- or two-person families. The lower-wattage microwave will cook most foods slower than ovens of higher wattage. That can be an advantage, especially when learning to microwave, because you'll be less likely to cook food too long.

What features are worth the price?—

I can't tell you what features are worth the price to you. I know which ones fit my cooking style, but you need to think about how you'll use the microwave when deciding what features to buy.

Whether to get touch-pad (push-buttom) or dial-control is a personal choice too. With touch-pad control; a few seconds of cooking time can be more accurately and easily set. More automatic features are offered on touch-control models. However, some people find dials easier to use.

At least one lower power — usually called Defrost or Low (50 percent power) — is nice to have, not only for thawing, but also for cooking some foods. A lower power slows down and gives better results for cooking eggs, heating cheese on sandwiches, simmering foods, or cooking some meats. This is true even in a lower-wattage microwave oven.

For "real" cooking, about four power settings are all you need. High (100 percent power), of course, is used for most cooking. Medium-High (70 percent power) in a standard microwave oven is 450 to 500 watts, and is for slightly slower cooking of some poultry and some egg dishes, and for reheating. Medium (50 percent power) in a standard microwave is 325 to 350 watts, and is used for slower cooking of cakes, some meats, and eggs, and for simmering. Medium Low (30 percent power) in a standard microwave is about 200 watts, and is for thawing and for slow-cooking large and less tender cuts of meat.

I've found most people don't use a temperature or meat probe a lot. However, it's not hard to use, and it does work well for automatic cooking of large tender roasts and meatloaf, and for heating casseroles, soups and beverages. The temperature probe comes with special microwave oven models — it can't be bought later and added. The sensor end of the probe is placed in the food, and the plug end into the microwave oven's wall or ceiling. You select a doneness temperature for the food and the proper power setting (the manufacturer's cookbook gives correct temperatures and power settings for various foods). When the food reaches the selected temperature, the microwave shuts off (or shuts down to a "keep warm" setting).

Automatic defrost is a feature that can be valuable if you are a last-minute meal planner and often use your microwave for thawing foods. With automatic defrost, you set the microwave according to a food category or weight, and it automatically defrosts the food. In most microwaves, food defrosts evenly and without cooking around the edges, because the microwave defrosts using the best combination of times and power settings.

Automatic cooking also is a feature on many top-of-the-line microwave ovens. You almost don't need to know how to cook with this feature. Program the oven according to food category; weight, or amount, and press the "cook" button. The oven takes care of the rest, calculating the best power setting and time needed to cook the food to perfect doneness.

An oven light may seem like a minor feature, but it is helpful to have one that comes on when the door is opened and when the oven is operating. Some lower-priced models don't have this.

A microwave-convection oven has one big added feature — convection heat. Convection cooking is similar to conventional baking or roasting, but a high-speed fan circulates the heat, causing faster, more even cooking and browning. All brands cost more than a regular microwave oven, but most microwave-convection ovens are four ovens in one. They microwave, cook by convection heat alone, broil by convection, and cook with a combination of microwave and convection.

What's new in microwave ovens?—

There are not a lot of new features on microwave ovens this spring. We can look for more news in fall when most brands introduce their new lines with new features.

If you're shopping for a replacement for your 10-year-old microwave, you'll notice that price is lower and size is smaller. Microwave ovens today feature smaller outside cabinets with full-size space inside.

You'll notice another change in looks. White is in. The trend in newer microwaves is to more of a "European" look, with more white cabinets replacing wood grain, and white trim replacing chrome.

Sensors are the word in top-of-the-line models. The probe, mentioned above, has long been a sensor featured on some models. Many of the newer sensors don't need a probe. Automatic defrost and automatic cooking, mentioned above, are examples. Some microwaves have a popcorn sensor that "listens," and when corn stops popping, the oven automatically turns off. Some microwaves have a humidity sensor that senses when food is perfectly done and automatically shuts off the oven.

Scanners, another automatic feature, are similar to sensors. Some microwaves have the ability to scan recipes or special product codes on food packages and sense when to shut the oven off.

In the past few years, smaller microwave ovens have been the biggest sellers. They are low-priced ($100 to $150), often simple to use (with only High power and a timer), and readily available in places such as supermarkets and drug stores. One major company reports that 45 percent of their 1987 microwave sales were compact and sub-compact models. These appeal to seniors who may be moving to smaller homes, and baby boomers who want to "try out" a microwave. However, industry experts expect sales of larger microwaves to increase as the families of baby boomers grow.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Today I shall finish my account of our Irish holiday. It was sort of a working holiday as we visited many farms and also the Moorpark Research Station. Here they milked 250 cows on two different farms. They get ten ton of grass per acre and put sulfuric acid on the silage as a preservative. Most of their cows calve in January, February and March.

We were bussed to another research farm where they test inflations and milking equipment. Here we saw the remains of a 12th century castle and some of us were more interested in it than the modern barn just across the driveway. We had our evening meal in a nice restaurant in downtown Cork City. This was my first taste of lettuce soup and it was good.

The next day we visited a bed and breakfast farm where they had a herd of deer. The farmer told us of his troubles in marketing the meat and purchasing new deer. They had two pets that they fed potatoes while we watched. We were invited into their home for tea, coffee and scones with homemade strawberry jelly. The houses have beautiful lace curtains in their small windows.

We bought a small black leather pocketbook, sun glasses and embroidery thread in Limerick. We were on our own for lunch and had a thick pureed vegetable soup and hard buns in a basement cafeteria with bright red chairs.

Our next hotel was Fitzpatricks Shannon Shamrock and it was quite near Bunratty Castle and Bunratty Folk Park. It is thought that William Penn lived here, as an infant, for a time. There were some 20 small thatched roof houses for us to inspect. One house from County Mayo was occupied by both humans and their milking cows, while others were fisherman's houses, doctor's house, mill, forge, school, etc.

That evening we went to Bunratty Castle for a medieval banquet at 9 o'clock. Everyone was served mead, a fermented beverage made of water, honey, malt and yeast. Our four course meal was served to us with just one utensil--a small spear. We were expected to drink our soup from the bowl and eat the spare ribs, chicken and vegetables with our fingers. A mock King and Queen were chosen and he tasted each dish before it was served to the 200 people seated at long tables in the large hall. Pitchers of white wine were filled and refilled all evening while we listened to talented singers dressed in long, brightly colored velvet gowns.

Our last day was 22 hours instead of 12 hours, due to the time change and getting home late Sunday night. We were glad to have our son and his wife meet us at Harrisburg.

These Parents Speak Out: Are Children Worth The Hassles?

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Sunday is Mother's Day. If the most popular Mother's Day cards are to be believed, Mom is perfect.

The cards compliment Mom for her magnificient, outstanding qualities. To read them, one would never suspect that there may be a rebel mom among the bunch. Perhaps, that is why a survey ran by Ann Landers, popular advice columist, showed some shocking statistics. She asked parents if they had their life to live over again, would they have children?

Seventy percent responded no. They claimed children were unthankful, unappreciative, and caused them more trouble than they were worth.

How do Lancaster Farming readers stand on the issue?

Readers from New Jersey, Virginia and across Pennsylvania were randomly selected to answer the question. All adamently insisted that they would "do it all over again."

New Jersey cattle farmer William Kirby said, "I'm tickled to death with mine." He and his wife Santa have three, ages 38, 32, and 14.

In regards to parents who feel differently, he philosophied, "I can tell you what the problem is. Both parents work; the kids run loose and no one is home mothering to give them an example to follow."

The 71-year-old claims he is from the old school that believes you don't get something for nothing. He didn't and his kids didn't. He said, "They all made something of themselves. My children are athletic and they don't go around with a pot belly and a beer in their hand."

He challenges, "Tear that picture tube up on T.V. It's getting worse—nothing is hidden. I'll tell you the secret to raising good kids is to have an interesting life. I'm a Jack-of-all-trades and a master of none."

He raises prize Simental cattle on his 180 acres and is a cattle hauler. He's proud that his three sons were all in the national rodeo finals and that one son won a world championship.

Admittedly, some ages or phrases may be harder to live through. Both the Kirbys and Ruthie Zimmerman of Manheim felt junior high children were the most difficult stage to parenting.

(Turn to Page B18)

"It's important to remember that each phase is a phase and it will pass," said Ruthie Zimmerman. From left, daughter Yvonne, Ruthie, Lamar and Wanda.

Longwood Gardens Offers Professional Training

BY LOU ANN GOOD

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Nathan Eshelman snips the stems of a rose and says, "I figure I got the best of both worlds."

His world includes both schooling and hands-on training as a professional gardener at Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square.

Working for Longwood Gardens is a would-be-horticulturist's dream. In the four acres of conservatories and growing houses, and 350 acres of outdoor gardens and woodlands, 11,000 types of plants and year-round horticultural displays entice 830,000 visitors annually.

Nathan is one of 14 students selected every other year for a 24-month program.

Students must show a strong dedication to horticulture. According to David J. Foresman, coordinator of the resident student programs, their commitment is determined through their hobbies and activities. "Applicants generally are affiliated through 4-H, FFA or horticulture or gardening clubs. Applicants should have at least one year of practical employment in horticulture."

For Nathan, a Manheim resident, his experience was received at a Lancaster County nursery.

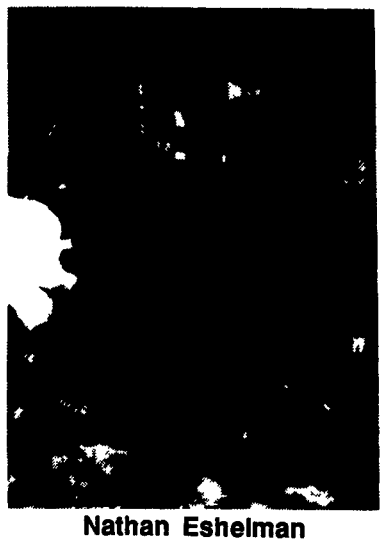
"I consider this program as an alternative to college," Nathan said. "I like all parts of the program because I enjoy learning."

Latin names for plants roll easily off his tongue. "In the beginning, learning the names took some getting use to, but I enjoy it now," he explained.

Weeding is another thing he enjoys. "It's part of the gardener's job," he said.

While enthusiastic about all plants, Nathan is especially vocal about the beauty of ornamental grasses. He predicts, "We will see more and more of them in landscaping. There's so many different varieties and so much you can do with them."

Each month a student is chosen to supervise the others in work projects. Nathan considers that valuable training for public and private horticulture where he may need to delegate work to get everything done efficiently and on time.



Nathan Eshelman

One of the many magnificent displays that Longwood Gardens has.

Each season boasts new floral displays in Longwood Gardens' conservatories.

Three days per week are scheduled for on-the-job training with Longwood's gardeners completing routine, seasonal duties. Trainees are assigned to each of seven major areas in the gardens for periods of one month or more. They are taught basic skills in floral crop production, care of herbaceous borders, lawn maintenance, transplanting, pruning, and equipment operation.

Two days per week are spent in the classroom. Thirty-five courses are taught by Longwood staff, commercial business people, and nearby university personnel. Classes include botany, floriculture, horticulture, arboriculture, landscape design, and plant pest management.

"Their library is extensive," Nathan remarked. "Any time we want to know something, we can find information there." The library includes 15,000 volumes.

Each student has their own 700-square-foot vegetable and flower garden. Nathan explained, "We can do whatever we'd like with them. Some students garden organically and others use pesticides and chemicals."

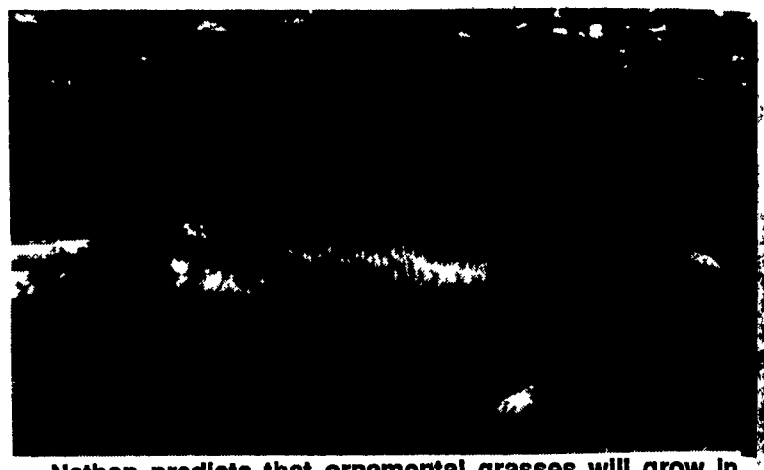
He leans toward using pesticides although he finds it fascinating to experiment with predatory mites to control insects. These beneficial insects are purchased on cards that are inserted in the planted pot. They multiply and feast on harmful insects.

The students enjoy experimenting with color schemes and themes. Presently, Nathan is designing a cool-colored flower scheme using blue, gray and white flowers.

Students have the option to organize field trips and use the garden's van. "The trip must be horticultural in nature," Foresman said. "We had a group the other year who wanted to go to the beach to study beach grasses." Their intent sounded fishy to Foresman who knew they were more interested in a beach vacation than a scientific study.

These trips explore the behind-the-scenes activities to commercial horticultural businesses and to study public display gardens and private estates that emphasize plants, design, and landscape maintenance.

Nathan sees a bright future for graduates of the program. "To be affiliated with Longwood Gardens has a prestigious ring since the gardens are renowed. There are more jobs than people in the profession and employees are always looking for people."



Nathan predicts that ornamental grasses will grow in popularity. He said, "There's so many varieties and you can do so much with them."

Since the program began in 1970, 102 students have graduated from the program. Approximately 90 percent are employed in horticuture, and of these, half are in commercial business and the other half work for public gardens and arboretums. Some graduates are self-employed or manage grounds of private estates and gardens.

"Because there is slow turnover at Longwood, few openings are available to graduates," Foresman said.

Why doesn't Longwood open their program to more students? Foresman said, "We don't want to saturate to the point where quality slips. Our ratio is almost one student to one instructor."

Graduates of the two-year program receive a non-accredited diploma from Longwood Gardens and become eligible to complete the examinations for a Certificate in Gardening from the American Association of Botanical Gardens and Arboreta.

Career counseling is provided to all students, and the Professional Gardener Alumni Assocation maintains a job placement service.

Trainees receive a stipend of $575 per month. Students live in one of three large houses on the premises. The houses are part of the estate and Nathan said, "We live in real style." Students are responsible for cooking and cleaning of the homes.

The horticultural showplace is accepting applications from June 1 through September 30, 1989, for the next class, which begins March 5, 1990. Students are accepted only every other year for the 24-month program, so after the September 30 deadline, prospective candidates will need to wait until 1991 to apply for the 1992 class.

Longwood also offers an internship program for three to 10 months, an international gardener training program, and a graduate program in cooperation with the University of Delaware.

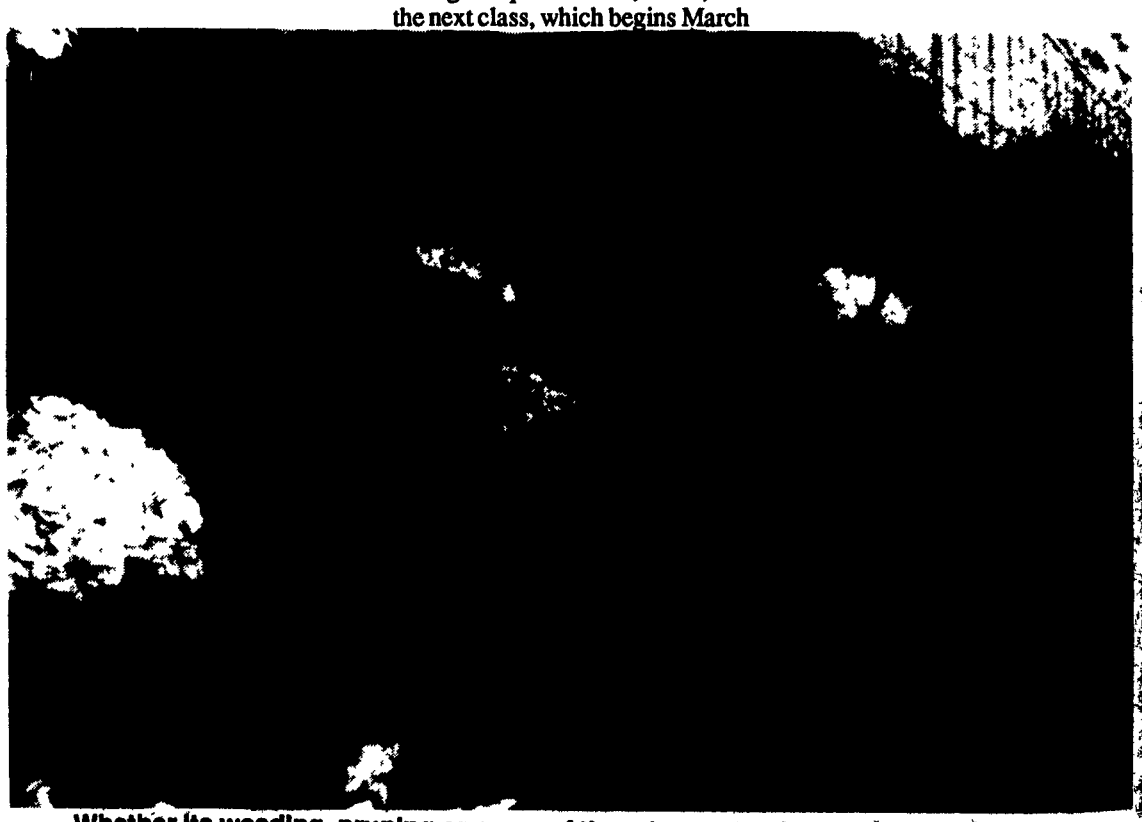
Applications and an informational brochure are available by contacting David J. Foresman, Professional Gardener Training Program, Education Division, Longwood Gardens, P.O. Box 501, Kennett Square, PA 19348-050 (telephone 215 388-6741, extension 501).

Longwood is located on U.S. Route 1, near Kennett Square, 30 miles southwest of Philadelphia. It is open every day of the year, outdoors 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The 1989 admission is $6 for adults, $1.50 for children ages 6-14, and free for children under age 6.

It was begun in 1700 when a Quaker family named Peirce purchased land from William Penn. The Peirces planted ornamental trees and created one of America's first tree parks. In 1906, Pierre S. du Pont purchased the property and is the primary designer of the Gardens. He was chairman of the Du Pont Company and General Motors.

When he died in 1954, he left the Gardens for the sole use of the public for purposes of exhibition, instruction, education and enjoyment.

The operating budget of $12.2 million is derived from du Pont's endowment and from ticket and shop sales.



Whether its weeding, pruning or many of the other tasks the gardeners do, Nathan enjoys each one.

Parents Speak

"It's a delicate time, knowing when to stand firm and when not to," Ruthie said.

Ruthie, the wife of Lamar Zimmerman, has three daughters, 13, 16, and 18. She emphasizes that it's important for parents "to ignore difficult phases and cheerfully accept that this too shall pass."

She said, "I enjoy and appreciate children's spontaneity. I wouldn't want to have missed having children. It's an exciting time."

She explained, "I think I would have become selfish and self-centered if I hadn't given myself to children—I have a tendency to be selfish as it is."

Ruthie enjoys children so much that she takes in foster babies. Her advice to others: "Relax—and enjoy mothering."

Marie and Levi Mumma of Manheim have four children, ages 8, 13, 17, and 20.

"I can't comprehend anyone not wanting children," Marie said.

She finds all stages enjoyable. "The toughest is probably when they are little babies because they get sick and you worry about them. Despite sleepless nights and exhaustion, Marie said, "No matter how tough things got, I never even considered that I wished I did not have children. I love them and enjoy them. I think giving yourself to others is what brings happiness. Difficulties come when parents think their career is more important than children."

Last week, the Mumma's youngest son had a tonsillectomy. "It's tough watching them suffer," Marie said. "I'd rather be sick myself than watch them suffer."

Thomas and Glayds Kuhns of Montoursville have two grown sons. Glayds said, "I can't imagine life without children. We have a great relationship with our children."

The Kuhns stress that the way to raise children is for the church and home to work together.

And in Chambersburg, Franklin County, Omar and Elaine Eby are enjoying the toddler stage with two childen, ages 3 and 4.

Elaine said, "Children are a blessing from the Lord. There would be an emptiness in our lives without children."

She admits that children are a big responsibility, one that she would not want to face without God's help. "If God wasn't the center of our lives, then we might feel like children are too much bother. But I don't feel that way at all. I love them. If I feel discouraged or frustrated, I ask God for help. And he gives it to me."

These responses suggest that Lancaster Farming readers may be some of the most loyal parents around. Those flattering Mother's Day cards will be just right for these mothers and Father's Day will soon be here so that the dads may get their share of praise also.

Vacation Time

The water wings and the sun tan lotion have been returned to the closet in hopes that there will soon be warmer days ahead in Pennsylvania. The suitcases are unpacked and the laundry is finished. We've just completed an enjoyable, relaxing family vacation. And at the end of the week, I commented that our daughter seem to grow up and learn a lot during vacation week.

Not only do vacations give adults a time to relax and renew but they also are a great benefit to children. Quite often children are exposed to another community, different types of people and maybe even different types of foods.

These are some of the many benefits for children that make vacations worth the money.

Even young children can be involved in choosing where to go on vacation. As alternate locations are discussed, you evaluate the positive and negative aspects of each place. This is a fun way to learn about the decision-making process. In the process, skills of negotiation and compromise are often learned as you discover that not everyone thinks the same way.

School age children can write letters to the chamber of commerce or state government of the vacation location. Vacation planning letters can teach children how to write a formal letter with date, address, and return address.

Even if you are planning a Pennsylvania vacation, you may want to find out more about the area you are visiting.

If you are traveling by car, children can enhance their mathematical skills by determing the mileage between cities and, based on speed limits, how far you can travel in a day.

Be sure to take a camera along to record your vacation. You can extend the fun of vacation by returning home to make a scrapbook or slide show of the trip. Have the children write a narration or diary of the trip. This helps children learn to organize things in chronological order and write something that has meaning.

While school will soon be over, and many children look forward to summer vacation, it doesn't mean that learning has to stop. Vacation is a learning experience.

Whether it's to another state, a neighboring county or even in your own backyard, take a family night this week and start planning your summer vacation.

Osteoporosis Prevention Week

SYRACUSE, NY — America's fifth annual National Osteoporosis Prevention Week begins on May 14 and continues through May 20. Sponsored by the National Osteoporosis Foundation in conjunction with over 30 national health organizations, including National Dairy Council, this year's theme is "Build A Stronger Future."

Osteoporosis, literally meaning porous bones, is a condition characterized by an excessive loss of bone tissue and an increased susceptibility to fractures of the hip, spine and wrist. Called the "silent thief," it is a condition most people don't realize they have until their bones become so fragile that they fracture. Osteoporosis is responsible for 1.3 million bone fractures annually, including more than 500,000 vertebral fractures, 250,000 hip fractures, 200,000 wrist fractures and more than 200,000 other fractures.

National expenditures for osteoporosis are estimated at $10 billion, including direct costs for care, such as hospitalization and nursing home services, and indirect costs, such as lost earnings. According to the National Osteoporosis Foundation, America's aging population, which is expected to double by the year 2025, will significantly increase the number of individuals at risk for osteoporosis.

"The good news about osteoporosis is that there are single steps people can take to help prevent it, according to Margaret Pettingell, director of nutrition education at Dairy Council Inc. "These preventive measures should begin early and continue throughout life."

Pettingell recommends that men and women of all ages, especially young and teen-age girls and adult women, eat a well-balanced diet rich in calcium and exercise regularly. Weight-bearing exercises such as walking or jogging help to promote bone growth in the young and maintain bone health throughout life.

Dairy Council, Inc., an affiliate of National Dairy Council, along with thousands of other health, youth, women's and older persons' organizations and agencies, hospitals and corporations have joined together in sponsoring activities and programs to help Americans take steps toward preventing this major health problem.

The objective of the conference was to allow youth to make input in the future directions of 4-H. In doing so, the young people informed the Washington, D.C., establishment about the needs, interests, anxieties, and goals of today's teens that they know. Bomberger visited the offices of Congressman McDade and Senator Heinz.

Bomberger was elected chairman of the conference noncompetitive talent show committee. He also sang a duet with Meredith Getsinger of North Carolina.

South Mountain

The South Mountain 4-H Club held its monthly meeting at 7:00, April 18, at the Fontana Community Building. President Scott Grubb conducted the business meeting. New members and project leaders were introduced.

Rules for the Lebanon Area Fair Queen and King contests were listed by Ron Royer. He pointed out that the current queen, Cathy May, and the current king, John Boyer, are from the South Mountain Club. Anyone interested in competing in this year's contest should contact Lorraine Royer at 867-1021. All 4-H members who plan to exhibit projects at the fair were reminded they must attend at least half the scheduled club and project meetings.

Calendars for the year's events were distributed. Petting zoos for May 13 at the Leader Nursing Home and possibly for the Good Samaritan Street Fair were discussed. The meeting was adjourned.

Club members then viewed Blue Sky Under My Feet, a 4-H video dealing with the making of space suits and modern fabrics. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held at the Fontana Community Building on May 23, at 7:00. Anyone interested in joining the club may call Fran Bushong at 867-2071 or 274-2801.

Teach Children Strategies For Coping With Stress

NEWARK, DE — Can parents protect their children from stress? No matter how protective parents may be, children will face stressful situations. When they do, they need help to understand their feelings and control their behavior.

Parents are key people in helping children learn to cope with stress, rather than preventing them from experiencing it, says Dr. Patricia Tanner Nelson, University of Delaware Extension family and child development specialist.

One way parents can help children handle stress is to take good care of themselves. "The greatest assets for any child are healthy, enthusiastic parents who cope well with their own stress," says Nelson. Parents can practice the following stress management techniques that researchers have found to be most effective:

* Reduce demands until you feel in control.
* Have a clear sense of goals and priorities.
* Think positive.
* Use your energy to solve problems rather than to try to escape them.
* Maintain a strong support system of family and friends.

Parents should also be aware of common causes of stress in children. These include

* stress between parents,
* divorce or separation of parents,
* the family's moving,
* a new brother or sister,
* pressure to do well in school,
* illness of the child or of either parent,
* death of a family member, a friend or a pet.

These and other "daily hassles" — things that just don't go right — can pile up until children feel they can't cope with anything else, says Nelson.

How do you know when your child is under stress? Common physical symptoms include headaches, vomiting, diarrhea and sleeplessness, says the family specialist. Other signs to look for are aggression, angry outbursts, restlessness, dependency, withdrawal and/or excessive crying.

Nelson offers the following tips for parents to help children manage stress:

* Help children plan so that they can have as much control over their lives as possible. A regular schedule and guidelines for behavior can help a child feel more secure and comfortable.
* Limit change in the lives of overly stressed youngsters. Stress piles up when several changes occur all at once, says Nelson. "Try to pace major changes, such as a move, in a way that will allow each family member to adjust in comfort."
* Encourage children to have friendships.
* Encourage children to take up relaxing hobbies and activities such as reading, photography, gardening or playing with a favorite pet.
* Help children interpret their challenges in a positive way. "To cope with stress, people should think about the good things that can come from a problem situation, rather than dwell on the negative," Nelson says.
* Let your children know how much you love and appreciate them.

As you observe children in stressful situations, try some of these strategies, Nelson advises. And remember that the stress management techniques you practice yourself will make a powerful impression on your children.

1989 Handbook For Selecting Roses

SHREVEPORT, LA — The 1989 edition of the Handbook for Selecting Roses is now available from the American Rose Society. This popular pocket-sized handbook includes a listing of over 1,000 commercially available roses. Most importantly, it includes the numerical rating showing how well each rose grows. These ratings have been compiled from the reports of thousands of ARS members. The higher the number, the better our members have rated it. It also includes the Miniature Award of Excellence winners, ARC Trial Ground winners and the All-America Rose Selections.

The cover of this edition of the Handbook for Selecting Roses carries the 45¢ LOVE stamp, featuring roses, dedicated at the American Rose Center, August 8, 1988, to honor America's National Floral Emblem.

Copies may be obtained by sending $1.00 and a self-addressed stamped (25¢) envelope to: The American Rose Society, P.O. Box 30,000, Shreveport, LA 71130-0030.

ATTENTION CORN GROWERS
SAVE FERTILIZER COSTS AND STILL GET MAXIMUM YIELDS.

The Penn State Soil Nitrogen Quicktest is a rapid soil nitrate analysis designed to provide better information for making N fertilizer recommendations for corn. This test was developed at Penn State University and is in its final field trials this growing season.

Soil samples should be taken only from fields that have received less than 40 pounds of N as fertilizer prior to sampling this year for the soil test.

THE TEST IS BEST SUITED FOR THOSE FIELDS WHERE SOME RESIDUAL N AVAILABILITY IS SUSPECTED BECAUSE OF PREVIOUS MANURE APPLICATIONS, FORAGE LEGUME CROPS, OR HEAVY N FERTILIZER APPLICATIONS.

Sampling should be done during the first two weeks of June or at least one week before sidedressing is planned.

Twenty-four hour turaround time. Results and recommendations phoned to sender. Copy of results then returned by mail.

Sample kits and price list available. Phone or write:

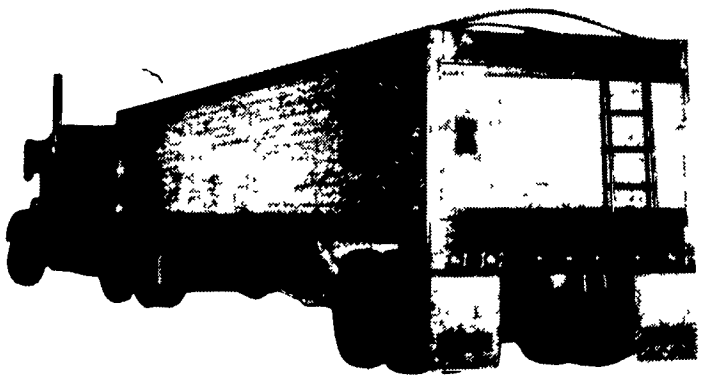
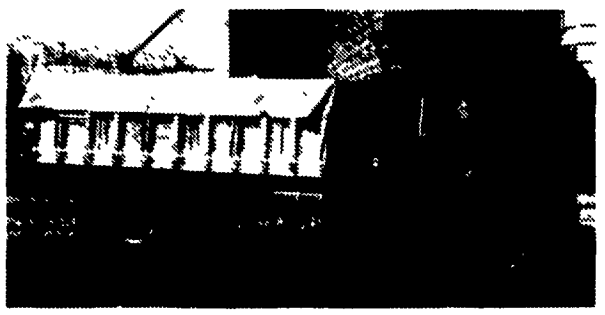
REDESIGNED 1989 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER

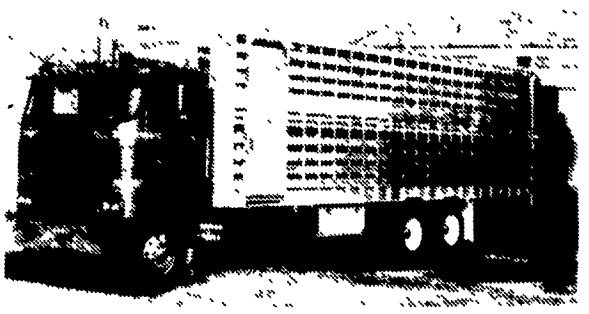


Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

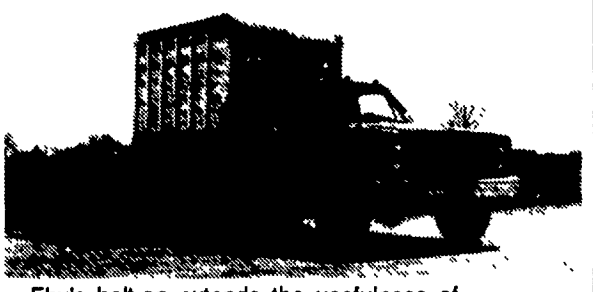
M.H. EBY, INC.
Box 127, Blue Ball, PA 17506 (717) 354-4971



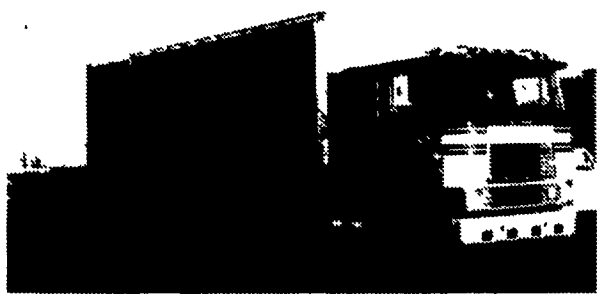
An Eby grain-body is surprisingly affordable and built for the long haul.



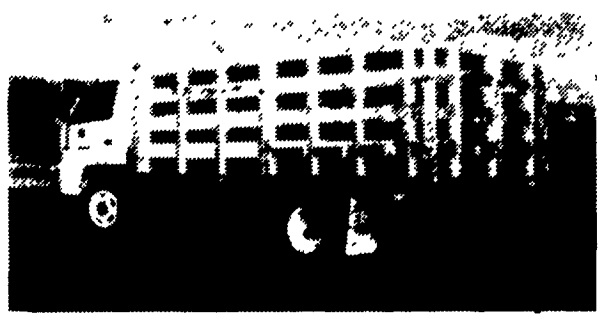
Reliable Eby livestock bodies are now aerodynamically designed.



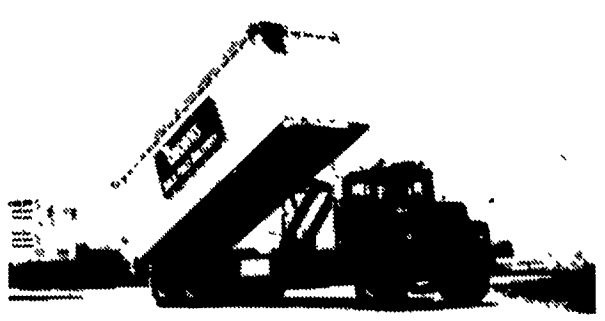
Eby's bolt-on extends the usefulness of your pickup for minimal investment.



A chicken body built to keep your birds dry and protected.



Eby stake body is the right choice for farm or commercial use.



Consider an Eby bulk body for reliability and ease of use.

Aluminum Bodies for the Agri-Industry

Back in 1938, when Menno Eby Sr. began making wagons and cattle trucks, he was determined to give farmers strong, wooden truck bodies at a competitive price.

Some things change. Others stay the same.

Today, M. H. Eby, Inc. produces a wide variety of sturdy and reliable truck bodies for agri-business. Everything from livestock bodies through stake bodies to grain and bulk bodies. All at competitive prices.

But now every Eby body is all-aluminum. Consider some of the advantages you get over traditional wood and steel construction:

- As much as 50% lighter — allows for increased payloads.
- It will never rust through or rot.
- No need to paint.
- Overall maintenance costs are greatly reduced.
- Just an occasional power washing keeps aluminum bodies looking new for years.
- They have much better resale value.

What's more, you can always tell Eby what you want on your body. Everything we make is custom-built. A long list of options available for every body style allows you to design the body you need for your operation.

Give us a call, or write, to find out more about the lightweight alternative.

Ensure Profitable Corn Stand With Management

Newark, DE — If properly managed, corn can yield a nice profit for growers, says Derby Walker, University of Delaware Extension county agent. He offers some tips to farmers to ensure the profitability of their corn stand.

"First evaluate your soil type and your ability to supply water," he says. "Because on Delmarva, water, not fertilizer, is the limiting factor in producing a high-yield crop."

What kinds of yields can farmers expect from corn on different types of ground?

"With some rain, expect light, generally droughty soils to produce a final plant stand of 14,500 to 16,000 for 100 to 125 bushels per acre," the agent says.

"Heavier soils or no-till fields can produce a final stand of 17,000 to 20,000 plants, producing 120 to 145 bushels per acre.

"With a traveling gun irrigation system, expect 20,000 to 25,000 plants," Walker says. "Because it is difficult to keep up with water needs in a dry year with this type of irrigation, a reasonable yield goal would be 125 to 150 bushels per acre. This would be higher if rain supplemented the irrigation.

"Under center pivot irrigation expect 23,500 to 30,000 plants for a yield goal of 150 to 175 bushels per acre. In a good year the yield should come close to 200 bushels."

Walker says April 20 through May 5 is the optimum planting time for the Delmarva area.

Planting during this time results in stronger stalks, lower ear placement, reduced lodging and higher yields. Black soil should be planted in early May because these soils are slow to warm and will hold moisture longer.

Maintain a pH level of 5.6 to 6.2 in light soils. Black soils with organic matter of 3 percent and more should be kept at a pH of 5.2 to 5.8, says the agent. Walker notes that as the organic matter increases, the higher pH level is hard to attain, but it is critical to try because the triazine herbicides (including atrizine and simazine) need a surface pH of 5.6 or higher to be effective. "Higher levels of the herbicides may be needed," Walker says. "Use your experience and the label recommendations to guide you."

No-till can increase corn yields when you have a limited water supply, says the agent, although no-till is not recommended on black soils. These soils are slow to warm and because they usually hold more moisture, the risk of drought damage is reduced. Also if grass was allowed to go to seed last year, no-till may not be a good option. There will be too many grass seeds for a surface application of herbicide to control.

"Most irrigated growers use conventional methods because they tend to have more uniform emergence and growth, resulting in about 10 bushels per acre more than with no-till," notes Walker.

Use a soil test to determine how much phosphorus and potash to apply. There is no yield benefit to applying more of those nutrients if your test indicates a high level of these elements.

"Use the test as a guide," the agent says. "And temper it with your own experience and with expected yield and fertilizer needs."

Walker says be sure to match your herbicides to your weed problems and soil types. Some fields may have special weed problems such as Johnsongrass, Bermuda grass, or Canadian thistle that are difficult to control. Fact sheets on many of these weeds are available at county Extension offices. A county agent can help you fine-tune your weed control program.

Protective Gear Essential For Pesticide Protection

NEWARK, DE — Small repeated doses of pesticide can be just as devastating as exposure to a lot of it at once. Farmers and others who apply pesticides should take steps to make sure these potentially dangerous chemicals reach only their intended targets.

Between one and three Delaware farmers are hospitalized each year because of accidental pesticide exposure, says Derby Walker, University of Delaware Extension agent.

"Always read the label before mixing and applying chemicals," says Walker. "It tells you what protection is necessary, based on the product's level of toxicity."

Exposure can result from wearing inadequate protective clothing. According to University of Delaware Extension safety specialist Ron Jester, farmers should wear long-sleeved shirts, long pants and chemical-resistant gloves even when using pesticides with the lowest levels of toxicity. Non-porous fabrics and disposable clothing provide good protection.

Jester says a highly protective material is DuPont Tyvek. "It's lightweight; yet with the proper coating, it provides an effective barrier against most agricultural chemicals." You can choose the appropriate coating based on the type of chemicals you'll be using.

If Tyvek garments become contaminated with toxic chemicals, you can throw them away. "But it's important when disposing of any contaminated clothing to follow proper disposal techniques," advises the safety specialist. "Handle these garments as carefully as you handle the pesticides themselves."

If you launder contaminated work clothes, be sure to wash them separately from the family clothing, says Walker. And wear fresh clothes for each day of spraying.

Cartridge respirators also may be required for pesticide protection. According to Walker, regular dust masks don't adequately protect you from chemical vapors and dusts. "Cartridge respirators offer better protection than dust masks if you replace the cartridge on a regular basis."

Dust filters in tractor cabs also don't provide adequate protection from spray vapors. Vapors accumulate in this type of filter. If a label requires a cartridge respirator, says Walker, a tractor cab equipped with a dust filter is not a safe alternative. Instead, use charcoal filters, which are available for almost any make of tractor.

Pesticide labels may recommend other protective equipment including goggles, rubber boots and a wide-brimmed hat. It's also a good idea to have soap and fresh water handy in case of pesticide contact with the skin, Walker says. You can keep them in the tractor cab or in a safety kit that attaches to the pesticide tank.

To keep safety equipment clean, be sure to store it separately from chemicals, Walker advises. Equipment stored in a locked pesticide shed can become contaminated.

"Select, use and maintain equipment properly so that it will provide the protection you need," says Jester. "Make sure personal safety gear is certified and designed for chemical application and remember that proper fit is essential for complete safety."

Tips Offered On Raising Soybeans

NEWARK, DE — "A sound crop rotation is essential for ensuring good yields in soybeans," says Derby Walker, University of Delaware Extension agent. "If you feel you cannot rotate out of soybeans, then at least rotate to varieties that are resistant to nematode and soilborne diseases."

Walker suggests that farmers who have experienced soybean severe stunt disease with their crop switch to an immune variety such as HT 5203. In addition, they can use a nematocide to control the dagger nematode that transmits this virus, which has been found in the Millsboro, Georgetown, and Harbeson areas.

Soybeans do well in soil with a pH level between 5.8 and 6.2. Walker says a manganese deficiency may be created on some loamy sand or sandy loam soils when pH exceeds 6.3. If a deficiency occurs, a manganese foliar fertilizer should be applied. When the deficiency is corrected early, little or no yield loss will occur.

Walker notes that when the University of Delaware soil index results exceed 50 for phosphorus (P) or potassium (K), no fertilizer is necessary for that field.

Spacing is another consideration when growing soybeans.

"Do not overplant soybeans," Walker cautions. "Extra plants compete for nutrients, light and moisture."

He recommends the following guidelines:

row spacing	plants/foot of row
36"	7.5
30"	6.5
20"	5.0
7"	2.0

The agent says soybeans planted 2 inches deep often do not make it out of the ground. Beans should be planted 1 to 1.5 inches deep.

"Weeds are an enemy of soybeans that must be dealt with," says Walker. "Incorporated soybean herbicides give excellent weed control because they are blended with the soil rather than left sitting on top.

"But take care not to incorporate too deeply," he cautions, "or you will dilute the herbicide. A disk with 7-inch spacing will do an adequate job of incorporating. A 9-inch spacing is too far apart to satisfactorily incorporate the herbicide. But if you have no other choice, make two passes over the field, with the second pass at an angle to the first."

Walker cautions farmers to avoid herbicide carryover problems in 1989 through 1991.

"Take the time to read the label before applying any herbicide," he says. "Any crop rotation restrictions will be on this label. If vegetables are in your rotation, it is essential for you to plan not just one season in advance, but even two in some cases. These restrictions involve the use of old and new herbicides alike."

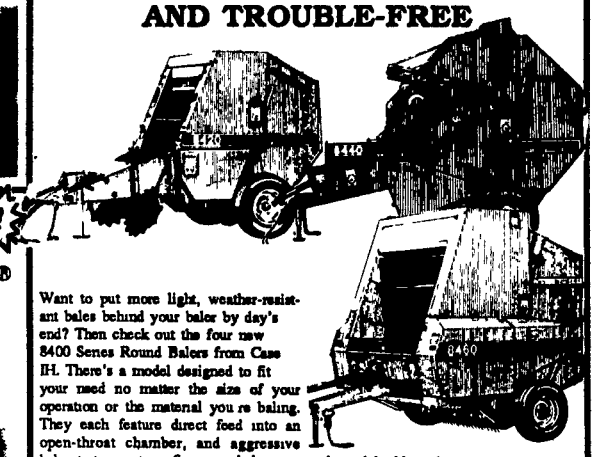
The New Case IH 8400 Series Round Balers

BALING THAT'S FAST, VERSATILE AND TROUBLE-FREE



Want to put more light, weather-resistant bales behind your baler by day's end? Then check out the four new 8400 Series Round Balers from Case IH. There's a model designed to fit your need no matter the size of your operation or the material you're baling. They each feature direct feed into an open-throat chamber, and aggressive bale starting action. So every bale starts right and builds right...to stay tight and fresh until you need it. And an audible alert tells you when each bale is done and ready for wrapping.

8420 Round Baler turns our 39x54-inch bales for smaller needs.
8440 Round Baler builds tight, firm bales up to 5x5 feet, regardless of the crop
8450 Round Balers are high-production models, built to produce big bales. 46.5 inches wide, respectively, and up to 6¼ feet in diameter.

Stop in — they're here now. Also Model 3460 In Stock.

Thoroughly Conditioned

The Gehl 2140/2170 mower conditioners will thoroughly condition your hay. These pull-type mower conditioners are built for fast cutting, fast drying and worry-free performance. The wide, intermeshing rubber rolls with intermittent ribs give you 35% more working edges than continuous-ribbed rolls, for more thorough conditioning. That means shorter drying time with less leaf damage. See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. today on how the 2140, with a 7 ft. cutting width, and the 2170 with a 9 ft. 3 in. cutting width, will fit into your haymaking operation.

Ag-Tech SEEDER

Take any rough-graded lot The Ag-Tech PRESEEDER can transform it into a flat, finished seedbed—quickly, easily!

The PRESEEDER attaches to any tractor equipped with PTO drive, 3 point hitch and remote hydraulic valve. Large front rotor with heavy duty tines can be adjusted to low on first pass to loosen surface and fill in holes with soil from higher areas. Horizontal angle of rotor displaces rocks and other debris into windrows. On final pass the PRESEEDER can be set high for smoothing. Evenly-spaced teeth on rear roller punch into finished soil to speed germination of grass seed.

Your end result... a beautifully-prepared seedbed—fine textured, even and ready for planting!

Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

S & S Silo Service Has Experience
Over 160 Silos Have Been Relined With Shotcrete

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

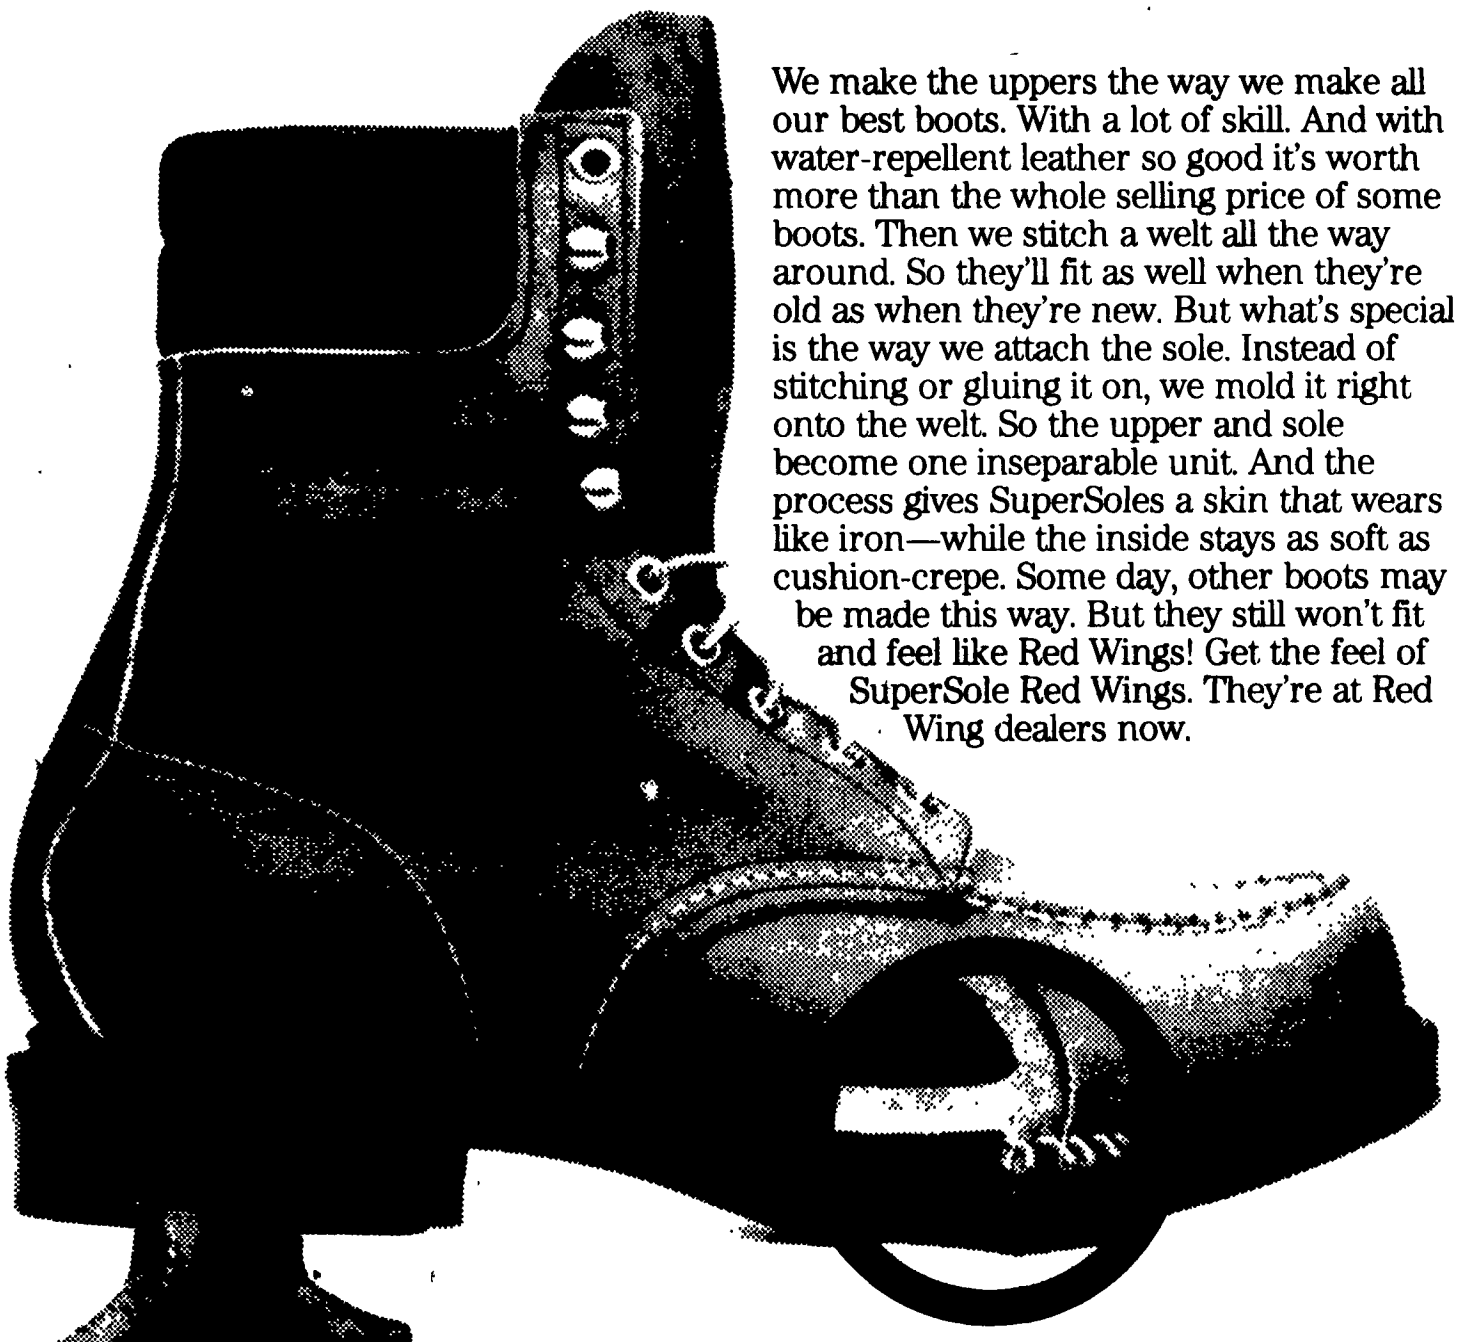
The boots nobody else can make.

SuperSole Red Wings—They'll last longer and feel better than any other boots you can buy.



We make the uppers the way we make all our best boots. With a lot of skill. And with water-repellent leather so good it's worth more than the whole selling price of some boots. Then we stitch a welt all the way around. So they'll fit as well when they're old as when they're new. But what's special is the way we attach the sole. Instead of stitching or gluing it on, we mold it right onto the welt. So the upper and sole become one inseparable unit. And the process gives SuperSoles a skin that wears like iron—while the inside stays as soft as cushion-crepe. Some day, other boots may be made this way. But they still won't fit and feel like Red Wings! Get the feel of SuperSole Red Wings. They're at Red Wing dealers now.

The SuperSole Secret is Red Wing's exclusive process that permanently molds the welted leather upper and the sole into a single, inseparable unit—and gives the sole its tough outer skin over a cushion-soft inside.

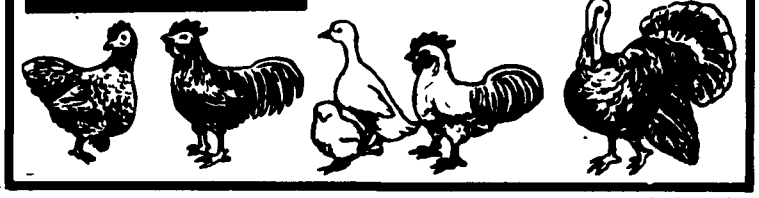
Broiler and Turkey Talk

by
Forest Muir

Associate Professor of Poultry Science
Penn State University



Two recent research articles published in the "Poultry Science Journal" indicates that housing type can influence light intensity for broilers. It has been demonstrated that continuous light during the broiler growing period produces a heavier broiler than is produced using a lighting program that incorporates a lengthy dark period.

One article describes a study conducted to determine the intensity of light required at night in curtain-sided houses for maximum broiler growth. Broilers that are produced in curtain-sided houses are exposed to varied light regimes. The natural light intensity during a 24-hour period can range from bright sunshine to darkness. For the study, the male broilers were exposed to a light intensity of 431 lux for 14 hours per day to simulate natural sunlight intensity and light intensities of either 9, 30, or 69 lux during the other 10 hours, simulating night hours (NOTE: 10.7 lux = 1 foot candle).

The results of the study showed that light intensity did not significantly influence the six-week body weight or feed conversion of male broilers. The authors concluded that for curtain-sided broiler houses a light intensity of 9 lux during the night hours is sufficient for maximum growth rate and reduces electricity for lighting purposes.

A second article reported on a study to determine the influence of light intensity and variation in intensity on performance of broilers produced in fan ventilated, light-controlled houses. Sixteen commercial broiler houses were used for this study. The light intensity ranged between 8 and 31 lux with a slightly lower average intensity during the night. When light intensity was correlated with performance traits, it was reported that higher light intensity and reduced variability in intensity increased body weight and percentage grade A and reduced feed conversion and condemnations.

A comparison of these two studies would indicate that a lighting program with the maximum variation between day and night intensity was the better program for curtain-sided broiler houses, whereas the lighting program with minimum variation in intensity was the preferred system in light-controlled broiler houses. The results of these studies would indicate that integrated broiler companies may need two lighting programs for broilers. One program for curtain sided houses and a second for light-controlled houses.

Youth Lamb, Pig Sale Brings $8,055

BY LISA RISSER

LEBANON — The gavel came down 108 times last Friday night as feeder pigs and lambs found new homes during the Lebanon County Youth to Youth Club Lamb and Pig Sale.

Auctioneer Harry H. Bachman took bids on 95 pigs, which brought an average of $74, and 13 lambs, which brought an average of $80. Of particular interest to the 40 bidders were the offspring sired by a $4,500 boar named Perry, who was a high finisher at the National Hampshire Show and sire the grand champion at the 1987 national barrow show. In addition, Perry sired last year's reserve champion at the Centre County Fair.

The Hamp-Duroc pigs, sold by Daryl and Darren Grumbine, brought top dollar, and one brought the highest bid of the night. The $265 hog went to a Centre County 4-H'er.

The top-selling lamb went for $100 to a Lebanon County 4-H'er. Total sale volume was $8,055.

This is the third year for the sale, which was developed by Ken Winebark, Lebanon County Extension agent and interim county Extension director. The program is designed to generate interest in breeding projects among the 4-H'ers and is a teaching tool for marketing, breeding, and sales skills.

This year's animals were supplied by Eric and John Harnish, John and Jamie Risser, Jay, Don, and Mike Kleinfelter, and Daryl and Darren Grumbine.

The sale ended with a drawing for a pig donated by Lebanon Valley National Bank. The drawing, which was open to any 4-H or FFA member, was won by Stacey Miller of Lebanon. Miller is a first-year swine club member.

Producers Seek Further Action On Canadian Hogs

DES MOINES, IA — Producer leaders of the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) met with government regulatory officials on April 27 in Washington, D.C., concerning a surge in subsidized Canadian hogs and pork products. Canadian shipments of hogs and pork have increased despite imposition of a countervailing duty on Canadian hogs in 1985 and a current renewed effort by NPPC to obtain a duty on pork products.

"Evidently, the countervailing duty on hogs is not completely leveling the playing field between the U.S. and Canada," said NPPC President Don Gingerich. "Beginning about mid 1988, the number of Canadian hogs crossing the border started increasing despite the duty. Strikes at Canadian packing plants did force some hogs into this country, but those labor disputes are now ended. The strikes alone can't account for the number of Canadian hogs entering the U.S. to jump from 445,863 in 1987 to 835,125 last year."

Canadian hog imports are still climbing. During the first two months of 1989, shipments of Canadian hogs totalled more than 266,000 head. If imports continue at that rate, a record 1.6 million subsidized Canadian hogs will be crossing the U.S. border by the end of the year.

Meanwhile, total pork imports from Canada amounted to more than 124 million pounds (carcass weight equivalent, excluding processed pork) during the first two months of 1989. At that rate, 748 million pounds of Canadian pork will enter this country during the year--24% more than in 1988. Starting in the third quarter of 1988, the Canadian government paid its pork producers a subsidy that amounted to $19.50 (U.S.) per hog. That subsidy increased to $31 per hog in the fourth quarter. First quarter 1989 subsidy payments are to be announced shortly and are expected to remain high.

"Canadian producers receive approximately the same price in their hog markets as do our producers in the U.S. markets," Gingerich said. "Currently, both Canadian and U.S. producers receive about $37 (U.S.) per hundredweight of hog. Yet, the Canadian pork producers get subsidy payments on top of the market price. It's no wonder they can find it profitable to pay duty costs of about $4 a head and transportation expenses to bring their hogs across the border."

Canadian producers are offering hogs to U.S. packers on a duty-paid basis. Therefore, the producers are absorbing the cost of the countervailing duty, transportation and checkoff, so U.S. packers can buy the hogs without being liable for any additional expenses. Packers are sheltered against the duty that might be assessed retroactively a year or so later when the U.S. government paperwork catches up with the high subsidies now being paid to Canadian producers by their government.

"Clearly, the production incentives provided by the Canadian government subsidization programs are encouraging Canadians to overproduce and target the U.S. market for surplus hogs," said Gingerich. "It is seriously injuring U.S. pork producers ability to make a profit in their own country. And that is why we are in Washington, D.C. to see what we can do about it."

DVC Dedicates Dairy Science, Animal Biotechnology Center

DOYLESTOWN — Delaware Valley College's new Dairy Science and Animal Biotechnology Center was officially dedicated during ceremonies here last month.

As a large crowd of well-wishers looked on, College President W.H. Rorer, Ill., Associate Dean for Agriculture John Plummer, Chairman of the Board of Trustees Kenneth W. Gemmill, and senior Dairy Science major Rick Lawrence cut the ceremonial ribbon marking the official opening of the facility.

"We are all extremely proud of this new facility," said Rorer. "It represents the first stage of what we feel will be one of the finest educational facilities of its kind."

Groundbreaking for the Center took place at Homecoming on Oct. 1, 1988. Phase I of the construction included the building's shell and housing for 50 milk cows and 50 young stock, a milkroom, silos, a feed mixing center, and milking parlor and offices.

Phase II of the project will utilize the remainder of the I-shaped building shell, completing the interior for the highly-complex and technical embryo transfer center, milk processing room, a student office and records room, and locker room facilities.

The total three-year cost of constructing and equipping the new center has been estimated at $1.1 million. The College's Board of Trustees has already allocated $600,000 toward Phase I.

The transfer unit will benefit students by giving them an opportunity to receive up-to-date technical training in some of the most specialized areas of the dairy industry, such as estrus synchronization and the marketing of embryos. The College anticipates that the entire facility will attract increased outside research projects as well.

"I feel very strongly about the importance of this project," said Plummer. "We are building a state-of-the-art facility that will be instrumental in moving our dairy science program into the next century. At the same time we are maintaining our place in the educational and dairy industry fields.

Prior to constructing the new facility, Delaware Valley College's dairy operations were carried out on a 42-acre farm on the north side of U.S. Route 202. That property was sold in November, 1988. Operations at the new facility have been on-going since approximately March 1, 1989.

Dedication of the Dairy Science and Animal Biotechnology Center took place during the College's 41st Annual A-Day celebration.

Influential People Surveyed On Beef Knowledge

HARRISBURG — A recent beef checkoff sponsored survey of thought leaders and opinion influencers in Washington, D.C., and seven other major markets showed that most have positive attitudes about the beef industry. However, because of inadequate information and misperceptions about the fat content of beef, many still have doubts about the healthfulness and, to some extent, the safety of beef.

The survey was part of the Industry Image Improvement project conducted by the National Cattlemen's Association for the Beef Promotion and Research Board. Of the 160 survey respondents, most were media representatives covering agriculture, food, health, business and consumer issues. Others were high level members of government agencies, congressional staffs, and representatives of food and health organizations.

Highlights of the survey findings are:

- 67 percent said cattlemen are responsible stewards of the land.
- 52 percent said cattle production methods are sufficiently humane. Of the 20 percent who felt there should be changes, most mentioned veal production.
- 71 percent felt that the cattle industry has been responsive in addressing the public interest.
- 60 percent said beef was as safe as other foods and 25 percent said it was safer. Regarding safety concerns, 41 percent mentioned hormones and growth promotants, 39 percent listed fat and cholesterol, 18 percent mentioned bacteria and sanitation, and 15 percent listed antibiotics and other drugs (percentages reflect multiple responses).
- 80 percent said the fat content of beef had changed and about half indicated it had been reduced. 40 percent thought beef had more fat than other meats. 55 percent believed that, ounce for ounce, there is more fat in beef than in poultry.
- 69 percent believed that the average American eats more beef than is generally recommended for a healthy diet. 59 percent felt that Americans should reduce their consumption of beef, with the majority (51%) of these citing health reasons.
- Sources relied on most for information on cattle industry issues are: newspapers & magazines (33%); cattle & livestock industry (29%); federal & state government agencies (28%); and the meat and beef industry (19%).
- Sources relied on most for information about diet and nutrition issues are: newspapers & magazines (33%); federal government agencies (25%); health & nutrition groups (24%); scientific organizations/universities (22%); national health associations (15%); and medical groups, doctors and hospitals (14%).

Foraging Around

By Dr. John E. Baylor
Director of Market Development
Beachley-Hardy Seed Company

Quality Starts Here

It's time to gear up for that first alfalfa harvest. Forage authorities generally agree that the most important single factor affecting quality is stage of maturity at the time of harvest. Young, immature plants are high in protein and low in fiber or lignin. As the plant matures, fiber increases, the feeding value goes down. Allowing forages to overmature prior to harvest results in a triple whammy — reduced protein, reduced digestibility, and reduced intake by livestock. The result: reduced income for the dairyman. And most authorities agree, getting that first cutting off at the bud stage does not cut total seasonal yield.

Data summarized by Dr. Sid Bosworth, Penn State's Extension forage specialist, from the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers Program supports the above claims. Take a look at the table below showing the average date of first harvest, average cutting intervals, yield and quality of three different cutting schedules in southeastern Pennsylvania for the four year period 1984-87.

Harvests/Year

Number of fields	55	93	22
Ave. Date 1st Harvest	May 17	May 25	June 2
Ave. Cutting Interval (days)	34	37	40
Ave. Growth Stage (1st Har)	prebud to bud	bud to early bl	early bl
Total Seasonal Yld (Tons HE/A)	7.3	6.5	4.7
Ave. % CP (1st Har)	23.3	21.1	20.1
Ave % ADF (1st Har)	33.4	36.4	37.5
Ave % TDN (1st Har)	63.4	60.1	58.8

Other factors also important

By the same token, stage of maturity at harvest is not the only factor that determines forage quality. We now know, for example, that it's possible to breed for high quality in alfalfa without sacrificing yield.

There are several soil and climate factors that influence quality, too. One forage authority put it this way: The crop in the field is affected by the soil in which it grows, the fertilizer it receives, the climate under which it grows, and the weather conditions, which are never the same for any two crops.

Three of those factors known to affect quality are day length, heat, and drought. Space doesn't permit a good explanation of how these affect quality. Very briefly, however, the first growth is grown and harvested under ever-increasing day lengths. Result, the older the plant the greater the NDF content and thus lower quality. As the season progresses and daylengths reach a maximum and then decline, the relationship between age and quality changes.

Likewise, the first cutting is normally produced under relatively cool conditions. But as the season progresses and temperatures increase, digestibility declines. Thus, over all, high temperatures have a negative effect on quality.

On the other hand, drought such as we experienced last year may result in less lignin in the plant. Thus, forages grown during hot, dry weather are often more digestible than similar forages grown under more normal moisture conditions.

All of the above point out the importance of forage analyses as your best guide to determine forage quality. With the newer technology available for analyzing forages for quality, there's no good excuse not to have your forages tested on a regular basis.

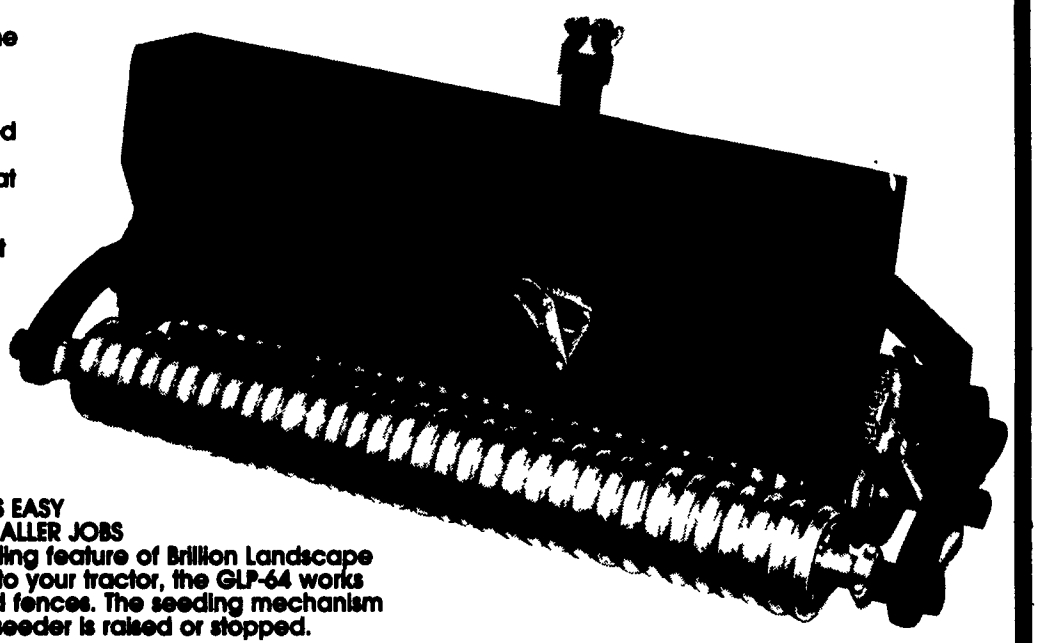
The shallower seeding depth is just right for controlled moisture and growth conditions.



THIS 5'4" MODEL PROVIDES EASY MANEUVERABILITY FOR SMALLER JOBS
Maneuverability is a leading feature of Brillion Landscape Seeders. Close coupled to your tractor, the GLP-64 works up close to buildings and fences. The seeding mechanism stops instantly when the seeder is raised or stopped.

FEATURES

BIG CAPACITY BOXES cut down costly refilling time. Rigid construction with tight-fitting covers keep out dust and dirt. Wind deflectors guide seed down between rollers. Accurate rate adjustment.

BRUSH AGITATORS keep the seed flowing at a positive, accurate rate and provide instant shut-off the moment the seeder is raised or stopped; prevents seeding "skips" and bunching of seeds.

WHEEL MARK LEVELERS are standard equipment on Landscape Seeders. Spring-mounted tines attach to frame ahead of front roller; remove tractor tire marks. Additional mark levelers for wider tractor tires are available.

OPTIONS
Speed up kit — doubles output; additional mark levelers for larger tractor tires.

Brillion also builds agricultural model Sure-Stand grass seeders. Ask for form 51.

Mill Hall Man Named To Northrup Honorary Sales Council

GOLDEN VALLEY, MN — Steve Shipman of Mill Hall, Pa., was recently named a member of Northrup King Co.'s 1988 Honorary Sales Council. The company's sales managers and agronomists who achieve or contribute to significant seed sales increases are appointed to the annual Honorary Sales Council (HSC).

At the HSC recognition ceremonies held recently in St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, Steve and Sue Shipman were recognized by company executives for Shipman's outstanding sales in 1988. In all, 43 sales managers and agronomists throughout the U.S. were honored at HSC.

"Shipman achieved his success by delivering a high level of service to growers and dealers in the district," said A.G. Laos, vice president of U.S. Agri-Products Division, in awarding the special plaque and member's ring. "He helped farmers maximize profits by matching New Northrup King products to their particular cropping needs."

Spectra Offers Silicone Tubing

NORWALK, CT — Spectra, a direct distributor of dairy equipment, is offering silicone tubing for use with milking systems. Introduced in 1984, silicone tubing doesn't react with milkfat, which is the main culprit in fostering bacteria growth in tubing. It provides a sanitary conduit for milk that is comparable to the sanitation level of stainless steel.

In addition to being sanitary, the tubing has a long life and is easy to handle in cold temperatures. A dense molecular structure allows silicone tubing to have a softer flexibility than rubber while retaining the strength of plastic. Silicone keeps its flexibility for years, and it will hold to a claw or milk nipple with the same resilient "grip" it starts out with.

While small tears in plastic or rubber tubing splits the tubing, a unitque molecular pattern built into silicone tubing forces a tear to curl back on itself and stop the rip. Instead of a small rent splitting the entire length of tube, the silicone tube is left with only a small J hook tear right at the site of the original cut. The silicone tubing can be cut off just behind the tear and continue to be used.

The tubing is available with ¼ -, 9/16-, and 7/16-inch inside diameters.

For more information, contact Spectra International Inc., 327 Main Ave., Norwalk, CT, 06851, or look for the ad in this issue for a toll-free number.

Automatic Expands Scraper Line

PENDER, NE — The soilmover planing scraper P-106 is a new addition to the three existing planing scrapers currently available from Automatic Equipment Mfg. Company.

The P-106, which has a 6-foot cut and 830-pound weight, handles up to 1 cubic yard, and provides increased maneuverability and efficiency for corners and smaller areas. The existing P-108, P-110 and P-112 have cuts of 8 feet, 10 feet and 12 feet, and capacities of 1½ , 2, and 2½ cubic yards, respectively.

The planing scrapers are a better alternative to mounted blades for simple land tailoring and finishing around farm or ranch, according to Jay Hesse of Automatic.

Regulated by wheels for a more uniform depth, the planing scrapers grade high spots and carry dirt along to fill low spots, and are ideal for filling ruts created by center pivot irrigation, scraping and smoothing feedlots, spreading gravel on lanes or driveways, and a host of other jobs around the farm.

Poultry, turkey, and potato operations without self-cleaning systems have used the planing scrapers to clean their containment buildings, and the smaller size of the P-106 makes it a natural fit for this use.

Soilmover planing scrapers feature durable construction and dependable performance to meet agricultural and light industrial earthmoving needs.

For further details contact the manufacturer, Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co., One Mill Road, Pender, NE 68047; 402-385-3051; or the distributor, Ryder Supply Company, 539 Falling Spring Road, Box 219, Chambersburg, PA 17201; 717-263-9111.

This planing scraper provides increased maneuverability and efficiency for corners and smaller areas. It has a 6-foot cut and 830-pound weight and is regulated by wheels for a uniform depth.

Pfizer Introduces Soluble Powder Terramycin

NEW YORK, NY — A new highly concentrated soluble powder for control and treatment of disease in livestock and poultry was recently approved by the Food and Drug Administration. Called Terramycin-343 soluble powder, it is the most concentrated oxytetracycline soluble powder available. Marketed by Pfizer Inc., the new powder is available through animal health and veterinary distriutors.

Used in drinking water to provide 10 mg per pound of body weight, Terramycin-343 controls bacterial enteritis and bacterial pneumonia in swine, cattle and sheep. In breeding swine, it also controls leptospirosis, reducing the incidence of abortions and shedding of leptospira bacteria.

In broilers, it controls infectious synovitis, chronic respiratory disease, and fowl cholera. For turkeys, Terramycin-343 can be used to control infectious synovitis and blue comb.

The new high-potency formula has more active ingredient (343 gm/lb) and less carrier and filler than other oxytetracycline powders. This means producers conveniently can increase the grams of medication in solutions to the highest approved dosing levels while handling less actual product.

Terramycin-343 is available in two package sizes -- 4.78 and 9.55 ounces.

Terramycin-343 dissolves quickly and completely. "This allows producers the flexibility to start, stop or change the dosage with a change of water," explains J. Calvin Downing, DVM, Pfizer technical services.

For more information about Terramycin-343 write: Pfizer Inc., U.S. Animal Health Operations, 235 East 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017.

Pioneer Anounces Computer-Leasing Program

URBANDALE, IA — Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., announced recently that it has begun offering its computer products on leasing contracts.

Available through the Business Information Services (BIS) division of the company, the leasing contracts are for IBM®, Zenith® and MAXAR® Computer systems.

Customers can choose from 24-, 36-, 48- or 60-month leases -- with monthly, quarterly or semi-annual payment plans. Generally, leasing applications are approved in eight hours or less.

"For as little as $76 a month, you could lease a $2,000 computer system for three years. Many farmers who aren't ready to invest in a system have requested this option from us, so we decided to offer leasing as an additional service to our customers," said Tom Gray, sales manager.

"Leasing has become an attractive option because you can trade-up your system at any time for something newer or more powerful. And since leasing payments are generally fully tax-deductible, it helps your bottom line, too," said Gray.

BIS has been selling computer hardware, software and training for more than five years to the agricultural community. For more information, call Pioneer toll-free at (800) 338-5878.

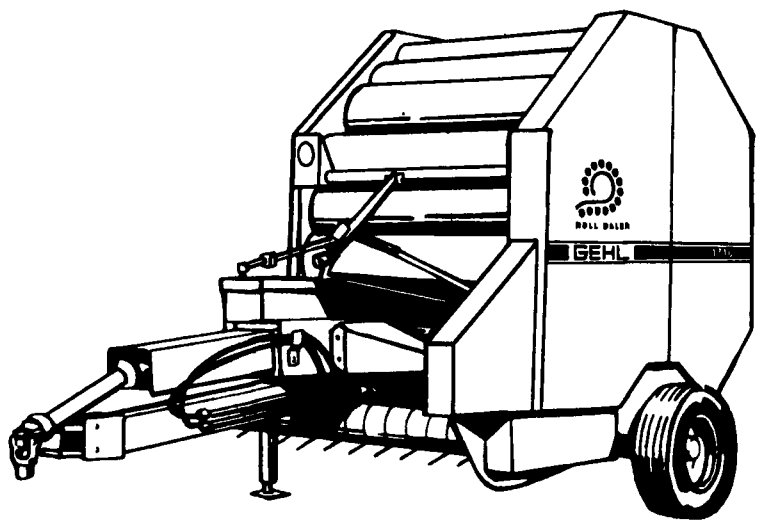
GEHL®



Simple Design.....Easy Operation

If you're looking for extra-easy operation, the Gehl Models 1310 and 1710 fixed chamber round balers can't be beat. No other balers are as easy to operate. The pickup feeds material directly into the baling chamber, so these balers easily handle all crops and conditions. Incoming material gently tumbles inside the chamber, gradually forming the bale. The operator simply keeps an eye on the pressure gauge; when it reaches the factory recommended psi the bale is complete. Stop by your Gehl dealer today for more information on these easy-to-operate balers from Gehl.

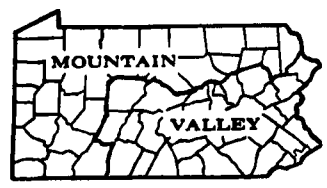
Information by Mark Hudson, agricultural statistician, Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service

HARRISBURG — The custom rates shown are averages from voluntary reports by custom operators throughout Pennsylvania. Most of the rates are stated per acre, ton, bale, or bushel, rather than per hour to reduce the variation due to machinery size. Individual rates vary due to differences in working conditions, services performed, or even the operator's eagerness to do custom work. Therefore, the average rates shown should not be considered absolute indications of fair charges.

Acreage rates are shown separately for two regions of the state, labeled mountain and valley. The differences in rates between regions reflect differences in terrain, soils, and alternative opportunities for the labor and equipment used. Figures labeled "the state" represent the straight average of all reports used regardless of geographic location.

Custom rates are mostly up this year. Of the 65 rates reported, 78 percent have increased, 8 percent have decreased, and the remaining 14 percent are the same as last year. The overall average is up three percent from the previous year. This percentage increase was computed by adding the rates for all jobs, regardless of basis of charge, and dividing by last year's comparable total.



Forshey's Begins Dairy Supply Route

MARTINSBURG (Blair) — Introducing the "Farm Store at your Door", Forshey's Inc. of Martinsburg, Pa., would like to announce their recent addition of a dairy supply route truck.

The program will be run by Bruce Mowery who has just returned from the Surge Training School in Naperville, Ill., where he received training on the proper use and balancing of sanitation products, and he can recommend the most economical cleaning routine for each farmer's dairy.

The Mobile Farm Store will enable farmers to do all the shopping for their dairy without ever leaving the farm. Besides their complete line of quality Surge sanitation products and genuine Surge replacement parts, Forshey's also would like to introduce farmers to the "Team Product Line," which includes replacement parts for all brands of equipment, animal health products from Anchor, Franklin, Kendall and Salsbury, boots from LaCrosse, Tingley, Red Ball and Rainfair, Heat Detection by K-Mar, and introducing the ear tags, pest control, gloves, rain coats, livestock instruments, milk hose, sure liner and mae's inflations, Rubbermaid products and much, much more.

-Lancaster-"Pure water is as important as pure food," explains Cliff Lehamn, water conditioning consultant of Century Co., 15 W. Chestnut St.

"But for local residents who depend on their own well, lake or pond for drinking water, purity of the water may only be hoped for," he added.

The solution to the problem of impure water is chlorination. Although chlorination is normal procedure in most city water services, it does not extend to homeowners depending on their own wells, lakes and ponds.

Frederick Miller, Dover RD4, was the junior grower of the high selling lot, which placed highest in the regional competition, while placing fifth in the state Tuesday at the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg, where state judging was conducted. American Stores Philadelphia region made the purchase.

Coming in behind Miller with a 90 cent sale, also from American, was H. Donald Grove, Delta RD1. Nancy Boyer, Thomasville RD1, received 75 cents for her third regional dressed birds. Floyd H. Moore, Jr., Lancaster, received 60 cents per pound for his fourth place birds, a price received by 18 other lots.

Cassel's Mill paid 65 cents for lots sold by Barry Haldeman, Manehim RD3; Judy Warfel, Conestoga RD1, and Marlin L. Cassel, Manheim RD1.

Ross Ferguson, top county winner from Kirkwood, received 70 cents for his top weight entry of 15 birds, from Beacon Milling Co. David Halladay, Kirkwood RD1, sold his third place weighted lot for 65 cents per pound for 59¼ lbs. from American.

American Stores purchased a total of 30 lots, including five of the top 18 entries. A&P Food Stores purchased three of the top 15 lots and made a total of 15 purchases during the auction.

Farmers Conserve 78% Erodible Land

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Conservation plans have been developed for nearly four-fifths of the nation's highly erodible cropland, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

Conservation plans have been approved for 105.4 million acres, or 78 percent of the highly erodible cropland that will need compliance plans by the end of the year. "We're slightly ahead of where we expected to be," said Wilson Scaling, SCS chief. "We're optimistic that we'll meet the 1985 Farm Bill goal to have plans in place for all highly erodible acreage by the end of this year."

Producers who cultivate highly erodible cropland must have an approved conservation plan by Dec. 31 to remain eligible for USDA programs. Those plans must be implemented by Dec. 31, 1994.

"Not only are we ahead on our planning goal," said Scaling, "a significant number of farmers have already implemented their systems."

To date, conservation systems have been installed on 29 million acres, 22 percent of the highly erodible acres.

Scaling said about 1.4 million conservation plans are expected to be developed by the end of this year, up from the 800,000 plans that are previously estimated to be needed. The increase is because many farmers are having plans developed on a tract basis.

"On farmland that is rented out," Scaling said, "it is easier for the landowner and the producer to have conservation plans developed on smaller tracts rather than the whole farm. This will reduce the number of plans that will have to be redone and will simplify the transfer of tracts between producers.

Scaling said local SCS offices are contacting farmers by phone and letter to remind them about the deadline for conservation plans. "Farmers need to have their plans approved by the end of this year," he said. "Also, they need to begin implementing in 1990. The sooner they are actively applying their plans, the sooner they will be assured that they will retain their eligibility for USDA programs."

Longer-Lived Tomatoes Result Of Cornell Process

ITHACA, NY — Biochemical clues from an obscure Brazilian tomato have led Cornell University plant scientists to a treatment that doubles the amount of time ripe tomatoes retain top eating and storage quality. The inexpensive process extends the shelf life of vine-ripened-flavor tomatoes from 4-5 days to 10-12 days. Cornell has applied for a patent on the method.

The process could be an enormous boom to the nation's $1 billion fresh-tomato industry, because it offers processors and shippers enough time to market the ripened fruit and allows supermarket operators to hold ripe tomatoes in top condition until sold. Currently, tomatoes are picked while still green, which diminishes their flavor.

"Supermarket operators would have a much longer period of time to sell the fruit, while consumer could buy better-tasting tomatoes," said the project director, Peter J. Davies, a professor of plant physiology in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell. He is on the faculty of the Section of Plant Biology in Cornell's Division of Biological Sciences.

The method thus far has worked successfully in laboratory-scale tests performed by David M. Law, a research associate on the project, but whether it will work under large-scale commercial conditions remains to be seen. A large commercial company recently signed an agreement with Cornell to evaluate the technique.

The process uses naturally occurring chemicals called polyamines to slow the ripening process of the ripe fruit, Davies explained. "We simply increase the level of polyamines that are already in the fruit, thus preventing the ripe fruit from becoming soft too quickly," he said.

Contrary to the current commercial practice, the Cornell method calls for picking the fruit after it begins to ripen on the vine, signaled by the first appearance of an orange color. Then researchers add a minute of the polyamine "1,4 butanediamine," a naturally occurring compound present in all living things, including humans, animals and plants. They also have found that two other types of natural polyamines as well as the natural amino acid methionine and several other related amine compounds work to retard ripening.

The scientists infuse the polyamine or methionine through a process known as vacuum infiltration. Air is forced out of the fruit while it is in an air-tight container with the chemical solution. The chemical solution then is drawn into the fruit through the stem or stem scar when the vacuum is released.

The quantity of butanediamine or methionine needed to treat the fruit is very small -- about 1 milligram per fruit. Davies noted that this is only about the same amount of these chemicals as is naturally present in the fruit. He added that both chemicals can be easily synthesized and that their cost is minimal.

The variety tested in Cornell experiments was Rutgers, a standard variety used widely in tomato research, but the method should work on most popular commercial varieties grown throughout the country, Davies said.

Tomatoes taste best when they are allowed to ripen on the vine, but most tomatoes available in supermarkets during the off season are picked while still green, because ripe tomatoes are highly perishable. The typical shelf life of fully ripe tomatoes is about four to five days, not long enough for growers and processors to ship them from the farm to the supermarket, Davies pointed out. Because tomatoes are highly sensitive to chilly temperatures, they should not be stored in refrigerators.

Tomatoes picked when still green are forced to ripen by treating them with ethylene, a naturally occurring hormone in fruits, but such green tomatoes do not develop good flavor, texture and taste.

"These tomatoes do not taste as tomatoes should; they never taste like vine-ripened ones," Davies noted.

The Cornell researchers got the idea of using polyamines to extend the "keeping quality" of tomatoes -- the time tomatoes will retain top eating and storage quality -- while studying an obscure Brazilian tomato called Alcobaca that has an unusual characteristic: Its fruit can hold its keeping quality for several weeks, a trait not seen in any U.S.-grown tomato. Alcobaca must be allowed to ripen fully on the vine, because it refuses to ripen if picked green.

In studies of Alcobaca, Cornell plant scientist Martha A. Mutschler, an associate professor of plant breeding, found that once this tomato is picked, the ripening process slows drastically. She then began studying this Brazilian tomato further with Davies, a specialist in plant hormones.

Davies and undergraduate student Andrew R.G. Dibble analyzed the chemical compounds that might be involved in delaying the Alcobaca's ripening process. Results showed that the Brazilian tomato had levels of 1,4 butanediamine nearly three times that found in regular tomatoes.

"We think that this particular compound plays a key role in slowing the ripening process of the Brazilian tomato, but other plant hormones also may be involved," Davies said.

The Cornell researchers are tracking down other chemical compounds that may work in concert with butanediamine in slowing the ripening process.

Meanwhile, Mutschler is working to tap the unique genetic trait of the exotic strain to come up with new varieties that would have a long shelf life. She already has developed a number of breeding lines for use by plant breeders throughout the country.

The work by Davies and Mutschler is supported by grants from the Cornell Biotechnology Program, the Frasch Foundation and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

New London Breeder To Exhibit At Hampshire Futurity Show

ASHLAND, MO — David G. Lytle of New London has nominated some top Hampshires lambs for exhibition in the American Hampshire Sheep Association's 1989 Centennial Futurity Show.

The American Hampshire Sheep Association is celebrating its 100th birthday next year. Twelve regional Centennial Futurity shows, strategically located over the United States and a national Centennial Futurity show will highlight the 1989 celebration. This is the first time a futurity show has ever been held for any breed in the purebred sheep industry in the United States.

Yearlings, as well as lambs, will be shown in the Centennial Futurity. The first nominations must be made within 75 days after the birth of the lamb. This year's nominations are for the yearlings to be shown in 1989. A nose print, on each nominated lamb, will be on file for positive identification.

The term "Futurity" deals with the future, but also with the present and the past. For the Centennial Futurity shows, Hampshire breeders will be nominating their best Hampshire lambs, produced from proven bloodlines, that will carry the Hampshire breed forward, through selection, to meet the demands of the future. The Futurity emphasizes the breeding of top stud rams and ewes and the Futurity shows will provide Hampshire breeders an opportunity to compare, not only top individuals on common grounds, but also future bloodlines.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.
